WEST INDIES.

Affairs in Havana—Financial Matters—The Cuba Cable—Literary News—Late Intelligence from St. Domingo.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HAVANA, Saturday, Oct. 5, 1867.

In a previous communication I adverted to a scheme suggested by the Siglo for the importation of white laborers from Spain, Ireland and Germany. We were all quite astonished when, the other day, the Prensa took the matter up and opposed the suggestion in a lengthy and particularly ridiculous article. I should not have spoken of this matter at all, however, had it not been for the very novel argument of which the Prensa made use to assert its disapproval of the measure. The writer says: "The only acceptable element to introduce would be the Spanish element, which, as experience has taught the present generation, is best suited to the promotion of civilization, in the general meaning of the term, upon this continent." This, indeed, is news! Imagine Cuba the fountain-head of the civilization of the Western Continent! Truly, the Prensa, of late, has contained news!

The first Treasury remittance made since the adoption of the new system was forwarded by the steamship Antonio Lopez on the 30th. It amounted to $400,000 in Spanish dollars, and was shipped with great secrecy, that the public might not be alarmed by the large outflow of bullion. The Government contemplates raising the rate of discount at the bank to eight per cent, instead of six, the present rate.

The submarine cable is working by fits and starts. One day there are any number of telegrams received; the next day none are at hand, and so on for two or three more. The worst of it is that they never say the line is not working, but receive all messages presented and pocket the payment therefor. This proceeding subjects business men to very great inconvenience and losses. The corps of operators wear the uniform determined upon; it is very neat and simple in appearance; the rank of the wearer is made known by the gold lace on the sleeves. All the different stations of the Company are united into one, which is located in the southwest corner, ground floor, of the palace. The uniform rate of charges has not gone into operation yet.

The newly-appointed Secretary of Political Affairs for this island, Brigadier-Gen. JOAQUIN SUAZO, has arrived here by the last steamer from Cadiz, and is stopping at the Santa Isabel House.

It is rumored here that the same privileges lately granted to Puerto Rico will be extended to this island, and that many reforms will be effected.

The inimitable Spanish humorist and writer, JUAN M. VILLERGAS, well known in Mexico and here, arrived by the Morro Castle from New-York. It is said that he will soon begin anew the publication of the comic sheet the Moro Musa, which he conducted until 1864. The new city journal, the Occidente, will appear on the 15th instant. It commences life with a large subscription list, and very excellent prospects. Our local newspapers have orgnized an Associated Press system for news getting. Mr. I. S. SPENCER has been elected President of the Association.

The health of the place is improving, though the sudden changes in the temperature during September and October render this season far more to be dreaded than the months of July and August. The southerly winds invariably render the heat more intense during the day, while after 12 o'clock at night we have a touch of chilly weather which lasts until morning. The sanitary reports for the last month have not yet been published.

Accounts from the interior represent the season as very favorable to the coming sugar and tobacco crops, except in the eastern part of the island.

SANTO DOMINGO.

Advices from Saint Domingo to the 17th of September have just been received.

According to the law which recently passed the Dominican Congress authorizing a fresh issue of paper money, notes to the amount of $130,000 had been put in circulation. Half of the Custom-house duties on imports and exports is to be paid in this currency. The value of the present notes as compared with the national paper money previously in circulation is as as one to five—that is, one of these notes is equal to five of the old ones of the same denomination. The amount issued, is, however, far below the commercial requirements of the country, which, it is estimated, demands a paper circulation of at least $500,000. The Province of Cibao, during the tobacco crop, absorbs a circulation of $100,000, and during the rest of the year that Province alone needs the whole of the paper circulation now existing in the country.

President CABAL has issued a decree authorizing the construction of a railroad from the mouth of the River Ozama to Cuayo Medina, in the section of St. Christobal. The contractor is M. FELIX MONTECATTINE, an enterprising French engineer. Another camel road has been opened from Santiago de los Caballeros to the port of Monte Cristo, to facilitate the carriage of copper ore from the mines in the interior to a convenient shipping place. The parties constructing this road are to have the right to construct branch roads in connection with it in any direction, and the privilege of extending it to St. Domingo City, and also of navigating the River Yaque by steamers and other vessels. Messrs. JOSEPH W. TABENS and JAMES R. YOUNG, of New-York, are the principals in this new undertaking. According to the terms of the contract the right is secured by them of converting the camel road into a railroad at a future time.

A correspondence, published in the Monitor, between Mr. MARTIN T. HOOD, of London, and the Secretary for the Department of the Interior, has thrown important light upon the conditions under which foreigners and foreign companies are permitted to work the mines in Santo Domingo. The old decree requiring foreigners to become naturalized one year, at least, after their arrival in the country, has been annulled, and they are now as free to work in the mines, without being naturalized, as the natives themselves. But in the event of any disputes arising between the Dominican Government and any mining company, or any of the people employed by the company, there must be no appeal to the nation to which such company individual may belong for protection. The Dominican Government thus provides against the difficulties into which it would be frequently involved were the right to invoke the protection of foreign nations in the case supposed conceded. The Secretary says, in one of his letters, that the American companies now working in the island have nearly all accepted this condition in their contracts.

An interesting report had been published by the Government, giving an account of the exploration of the River Yuna by Mr. ARTHUR PENVELL. The result of Mr. PENVELL's labors shows that at a comparatively small outlay the river might be made navigable for large vessels for a distance of at least forty-five miles from its mouth. The Yuna empties itself into the Atlantic near Samana, and waters, with its tributaries, one of the most fertile districts in St. Domingo. In three different places on its banks superficial indications of coal were discovered by Mr. PENVELL, but the owners of the land opposed any further examination.

The fifth anniversary of the Restoration of the Republic, after the evacuation by the Spaniards, was celebrated throughout the country with the greatest enthusiasm. At the City of St. Domingo there was a grand military display, and a Te Deum was performed at the Cathedral, which was attended by all the dignitaries of the Republic, the soldiers, and a large concourse of people. Salutes were fired at sunrise, mid-day and sunset, and the day's festivities was closed with numerous parties and balls.

The Government had sent an order to Mr. J. M. MACIAS, of New-York, to purchase 200,000 stand of arms for the use of the Republic. During the late war of the Spanish intervention the principal weapon of the Dominican soldier was the machete.

AFFAIRS IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

The Cotton Trade—General Bankruptcy—A New Scheme of Confiscation—Discriminating Taxation—Gen. Canby's Tax Order and its Effect—Registration—Gen. Sickles and Gov. Orr.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Friday, Oct. 4, 1867.

The cotton is moving in briskly to market, the receipts at this port having already reached a thousand bales in a single day. There are serious apprehensions, however, that the shipment of the great bulk of the crop will be retarded by circumstances less transitory in their character than the lateness of the season. The difficulty experienced by the planters, almost without exception, in obtaining the ready money requisite to meet the expenses of transportation and insurance and the onerous requirements of the Internal Revenue Law, will undoubtedly delay and embarrass holders in turning the staple into cash. The bank rate of discount in Charleston is eighteen per cent. per annum, more than four-fold the rate for which money can be obtained in New-York, the financial centre of the Union. The prime cause of this great disparity is to be found in the prevailing lack of confidence in the stability of political affairs, but it is also attributable in some degree to the partial manner in which the national currency has been apportioned among the Southern as compared with the Northern States. Before the war the City of Charleston possessed a banking capital of fourteen millions of dollars in gold or its equivalent. This is now reduced to the insignificant sum of half a million in currency, which constitutes the joint capital of the only two National Banks that have, so far, been established in the city. In former times the facilities for borrowing money for the purpose of moving the crops from the interior to the seaboard were considered by no means excessive. Now, when the planting class are so much more straitened, the inability of two small banks to afford accommodation to both factor and shipper, is obvious; and even were they able to make the necessary advances it might well be doubted whether the planters could afford to pay the enormous interest of one and a half per cent. a month. It will therefore be seen that the tribulations of those even, who have been moderately successful in raising cotton, will by no means cease when their crops are picked and safely stored in their gin-houses. Of those whom the worm or rains have ruined I need not speak. Along the seaboard must ensue during the coming Winter, unless creditors should prove vastly more lenient than creditors usualy are. Nearly every plantation is more or less mortgaged, and should foreclosures be insisted upon, the best lands in this State will change hands at a ruinous sacrifice. The lawyers are preparing to reap a rich harvest out of cases under the new Bankrupt Law, for there will probably be no portion of the Union that will contain as large a number of insolvents, in proportion to the population, as South Carolina. This condition of affairs is due in a large measure to the mania which prevailed before the war, among the landholders, for buying slaves upon long credits, giving a bond for the purchase money, secured by a mortgage of the slave. The validity of such bonds, in view of the cessation of Slavery, has been an interesting question, occupying much of the attention of the State and Federal Courts during the last twelve months; nor will the contest be settled until the United States Supreme Court shall have pronounced final judgment in the matter. So far, the disposition of Judges seems to have been to affirm the validity of such debts, and fasten the entire loss upon the mortgagor of the slave. Should this ruling be sustained, the army of applicants who have already filed petitions of bankruptcy here will be very largely reinforced.

A NEW SCHEME OF CONFISCATION.

The assurances which the freedmen have received from the leading exponents of the Republican party, that no distribution of lands is to be hoped for as the result of a general confiscation, seem at last to have produced the desired impression. It is only the more ignorant among the blacks who still cling to the delusion that the boon of their freedom is to be supplemented by a gift of land; but, failing the acquisition of land by the direct action of the National Congress, it is believed that another plan can be carried out, which will be nearly as effectual as the first, and yet avoid the strenuous opposition that any scheme of general land pillaging would infallibly meet with in the North.

As already said, the majority of the planters of South Carolina have nothing left but their lands. In the whole of the low country the cotton crop has been a failure, and the landowners will depend for the possession of their lands upon the forbearance of creditors and their own ability to meet the taxes upon them. The freedmen have shrewd and plausible advisers, and, under their lead, the newly enfranchised citizens of the State are familiarizing themselves with a policy that will be as destructive to the white race as the general seizure of their estates. They have every reason to believe that they can control the Convention to be held, under the military acts, this Fall, and they have resolved to provide for such a discrimination in the State taxation as shall throw nearly the whole burden of the support of the State upon the owners of real estate. They argue that a high tax upon lands will force tens of thousands of acres of land into the market on account of the inability of the possessors to pay their taxes. There would be more land forced on the market than would be bought at anything approximating to its value, and the freedmen would thus be able to buy land at nominal rates. This idea is causing great uneasiness, and adds to the gloom now prevalent.

THE TAX ORDER OF GEN. CANBY

has already been sent you by telegraph, but, so far, no step has been taken by post commanders to give practical effect to its provisions. As understood by our well-informed citizens, it authorises the suspension of taxes which discriminate against the citizens of other States in favor of the citizens of the States of North and South Carolina, of taxes imposed for the payment of interest or principal of any debt contracted in aid or furtherance of the rebellion, and of taxes imposed upon any business transaction completed, or upon any right of property parted with, prior to the passage of the act imposing the tax. It is to the last of these three tax classes to which attention is chiefly turned. By an act of the Legislature of this State, passed in December, 1866, a tax was imposed on all gross sales of merchandise taking place in the year ending Jan. 1, 1867. Seven-eighths of the business of the year had been completed, returns of sales had been made and the balances paid over; and, as the new tax was more than twice that which had been customary in previous years, it threw our merchants into a state of great perplexity. It was at first determined to test the constitutionality of the Tax Law, but, acting under legal advice, the determination was relinquished, and the merchants resolved to pay up their arrears as best they might. Many thousands of dollars are due in this city alone under this tax upon gross sales, and it is held that Gen. CANBY's order will authorize the suspension of their collection, but as no explanation of what is intended has been given officially, there is still great doubt upon this important subject.

Gen. CANBY's order providing for the repair, at the civil expense, of important roads and bridges, has been well received, and nine men out of ten in the country districts, are opposed to any repeal or modification of the military law staying the collection of debts incurred during the war, known as General Orders No. 10. In this city the Stay Law is looked upon with great disfavor, as being both unjust and unconstitutional; but it has certainly done great good, and prudent men would learn its withdrawal with grave regret.

is not yet completed—that is, the official returns have not been received—but the colored citizens will, it is expected, have a total majority of about thirty thousand. It is believed, of course, that a Convention will be held; and, as the blacks will have the control, a thoroughly Republican Constitution for this State will be submitted to the people. The whites see that they have no power to check the peaceable progress of Congressional reconstruction, and they now rest their hopes upon an expected reaction in the North and West to be made evident at the elections which will have taken place before this reaches you. They do not expect any help from the President, but believe that the prospect of negro supremacy in the South will cause the speedy downfall of this idea. "Masterly inactivity" is the general policy, and the whole of our three Charleston dailies counsel, in one form or another, opposition to the military laws. There is no tendency toward violence or hostility; but there is an evident determination to refuse to participate in any way in measures that are here pronounced to be oppressive, unjust and destructive of our freedom. The Mercury is inclined to be over-bold; but, in its extreme views, it does not receive cordial support.

ONE THING IS WANTING,

and that is, that the people here be convinced that the old order of things has passed away never to return, and that in a cordial coöperation with the will of the American people, as expressed by Congress, can alone be found the way to peace and prosperity. For this reason any slight change in the vote at the Northern elections, although caused by purely local questions, does great harm. It encourages the belief that successful resistance may be made to the theory of reconstruction, and makes the whites more firm than before in their resolve to let Congress and Congressional reconstruction entirely alone. But if the people here can see that Republicanism is strong and steadfast, there will be an immediate change in opinion, and reconstruction will have a fair and unprejudiced trial.

IN GENERAL NEWS

there is but little new or of interest. Gov. ORR's letter to Gen. SICKLES has exposed him to strong censure; and those who do not understand his motives wonder that he can bear in dignified silence the attacks that are made upon him. He will probably find his reward in the future; and, indeed, it is rumored that Gen. SICKLES will be again in command of the District by the first of January next. Gen. CANBY is very much liked; but, somewhat to the disappointment of the representatives of the "old Carolina spirit," he has adhered to all the orders of Gen. SICKLES, with the exception of that section of General Orders, No. 10, which led to the contest between the Post Commandant at Wilmington and the Marshal of the United States Court. It is understood that the order for the election of delegates to the State Convention will be issued in a few days, and the freedmen look forward to its issue with a lively anxiety. The Fall trade has opened, but business is dull. Rumors of yellow fever prevailing in this city are current in the interior, but are without any foundation in fact. The city is very healthy, and a great part of our freedom from sickness this year is due to the wise sanitary regulations which have been supervised by the military authorities.

NEW-JERSEY STATE FAIR.

Great Success of the Exhibition—Large Attendance of Farmers and Fruit-Growers—Interesting Display of Agricultural Implements, Fruits, Flowers and Vegetables.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NEWARK, N. J., Thursday, Oct. 10.

This is the third day of the exhibition of the New-Jersey Agricultural Society. This Society has recently been reorganized, with Gen. N. N. HALTSEAD, of Newark, President, and R. S. SWORDS, Secretary, with an efficient board of nineteen directors. The Society have purchased about two hundred and twenty-five acres within five minutes' walk of the Waverley Station, and one mile southeast of Newark. The beginning is eminently creditable to the enterprising farmers and fruit-growers of New-Jersey who compose the officers of the Society. Near the middle of the grounds is a beautiful lake, embracing about eighty-five acres. Sixty-five acres of the ground have been inclosed with a neat board fence ten feet high. The buildings, which have been completed, are neat and tasty specimens of rural architecture; and the spacious tents afford convenient and ample space for exhibitors to display their products, and visitors have sufficient room to examine the articles in every department. The surface of the ground is beautifully undulating and embellished with numerous shade trees, which render the show grounds doubly attractive. A beautiful oval track, half a mile in length, has been prepared in the valley, where premium animals can be exhibited in full view of 10,000 people, on the summit and slopes of the surrounding eminences. There is an immense crowd of intelligent and appreciative visitors present.

One of the most commendable features of the enterprise consists in the thorough and efficient organization and arrangement of the different departments. A competent superintendent has supreme control of each department; and each one is expected to secure efficient and competent judges as a committee to examine all articles in his list, and to award prizes according to the regulations and rules of the Society. By this arrangement the labor is properly divided; and the superintendents are held responsible for the prompt performance of their duties.

The exhibition of agricultural implements was highly creditable to the Society. The firm making the most extensive display of improved farm implements was represented by C. G. CRANE, of Newark, N. J., who showed plows, harrows, scarifiers, seed-drills, mowers and reapers, horse-powers, straw-cutters, and almost every kind of implement that is employed in modern agriculture. Gen. N. N. HALSTEAD exhibited an old "Buckeye" mower, which has been in use for eight successive seasons, requiring not over $5 for repairs during that period, and it is still an excellent implement.

The number of entries in the mechanical department is over 300; in the agricultural and horticultural department, the entries amount to 220. The number in the Fine Arts is 75. The number of household articles is 73. The entries of horses number 150, most of which are fine animals. The number of neat cattle is 72. The largest number of any one breed of cattle was in the department of Alderneys, most of which are superior animals.

The exhibition of sheep and of swine is light, as New-Jersey is decidedly a fruit-producing State rather than a locality for raising sheep and swine. The exhibition of poultry was not as large as is customary at State Fairs; yet the specimens shown were creditable to the producers.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLES.

The exhibition of all kinds of fruit and vegetables was held in a spacious tent, affording ample accommodations for a large exhibition. The most extensive display was made by P. T. QUINN, of Newark, Superintendent of the Floral Tent. Although the past season, especially in New-Jersey, has been exceedingly unfavorable for producing fine fruit, still, competent judges affirm that Mr. QUINN has succeeded in making the most creditable exhibition of fruit that was ever known in this State. The show of pears is really magnificent. Fine apples and choice grapes appear in liberal abundance. The majority of exhibitors are amateurs, not a professional nurseryman being represented in the Fruit Department.

The display of flower-potted plants and evergreens is very fine, and their artistic arrangement speaks well for the Superintendent. The tent is beautifully ornamented, and is constantly filled with a crowd of visitors, who seem to enjoy themselves while admiring the productions of the Jersey soil. Mr. D. D. BUCHANAN has on exhibition 40 different varieties of hardy evergreens tastefully arranged. Mr. HARVEY has also a collection of evergreen potted plants and cut flowers, which are very fine. Mr. J. HUTCHINGS, of Elizabeth, exhibited 160 pots of green-house plants, which deserve high credit.

I have seldom seen so large a display from amateur growers. There were a few Japan pears on the table, which attracted considerable attention from their peculiar form and appearance. Of vegetables there is an abundance; and judging from the large exhibition of potatoes, one would think that New-Jersey is rivaling the productive soil of Ireland in that line. The most creditable exhibition of potatoes is made by REISIG & HEXAMER, of Newcastle, N. Y., who displayed on separate dishes fifty varieties, all of which are very superior.

Rev. J. KNOX, of Pittsburgh, Penn., exhibited fifty varieties of grapes, and all of them are excellent specimens of their kind. The fruit was not taken from the vines until Monday morning, the 7th, and they were displayed at the New-Jersey Fair on Wednesday morning in excellent condition. Such a large exhibition from one individual, and all in such excellent condition, reflected great credit on the producer. There are many other exhibitions in this department, but they are mostly amateur growers of fruit.

To-morrow (Friday) will be the last day of the exhibition, when the awards will be announced, and the speed of some of the "fast horses" will be witnessed. Thus far the exhibition has been a most gratifying and satisfactory success.

Inauguration of Gov. Brownlow—His Address.

GOV. BROWNLOW was inaugurated at the Tennessee State Capitol in Nashville yesterday morning. He appeared in the House of Representatives, and took the oath of office. The inaugural address was read by his Private Secretary. Of this address a synopsis was published in yesterday's TIMES, but the following verbatim extracts are of interest:

"Your predecessors took the Government as an experiment, you find it an establishment. They adopted measures to set it in motion, your measures will look to a wise and beneficent administration. It was theirs to build the machinery, it is yours to keep it in good running order. Our external relations are mainly and for present inquiry entirely with the Federal Government, and I am happy to inform you that they continue most amicable and harmonious. From the beginning, we have been sustained by the military authorities of the nation in keeping the peace and executing the laws in localities where the war, after subsiding, had left elements of disturbance. Your predecessors thought proper to provide a small militia force, to be used in aid of the civil law and as part of it, when the civil war, unaided, might prove incapable of dealing with its violators. Application was made to Congress for arms and equipments, which were cheerfully granted by that body. And I take pleasure in bearing testimony to the promptitude with which their action was carried into effect by the then Secretary of War. Much anxiety was felt in anticipation of disorders on the day of election. Major-Gen. GEORGE H. THOMAS, in command of the Department, coöperated with Gen. JOSEPH A. COOPER, in command of the militia, so effectually that, with a few marked exceptions, the peace was preserved and the best of order maintained all over the State. With these exceptions, there never has been so quiet an election in the State, or one that evinced more forbearance and self-control on the part of our citizens.

IMMIGRATION.

It was our fond hope that upon the restoration of peace, the termination of Slavery and the establishment of civil government, a tide of immigration would set into this State from the Northern States and from Europe; that men of capital and enterprise, attracted by our mild and healthy climate, fertile soil, magnificent scenery, pure and abundant water, would come among us and aid in the development of our vast resources. Our disappointment is attributable to the intolerant and proscriptive spirit of a large portion of those lately in rebellion. With them every Union man is an "Abolitionist," and every "Abolitionist" an enemy to be proscribed, despised and driven from the country. I attribute the violence of these pestilential disloyalists to the insane policy of the President, who constantly holds out to them the prospect of being restored to power at an early day. The treatment of the few who have brought their families and means among us has been such as to engender a feeling of insecurity of life and property, a sense of social isolation and a consciousness that they are liable at any time to be expelled from the country. Some good citizens, men of enterprise and capital, have actually returned to the Northern States in consequence of ill treatment. It is to be hoped, however, that these passions and prejudices will wear away and common sense resume its sway; that as the power and influence of the President, now so rapidly waning, shall cease to stimulate their vain and foolish hope for supremacy in the country, they will see the great advantage of not only treating immigrants with common respect, but of encouraging them to settle among us. It is to be hoped that they will soon learn that their former contracted and sectional ideas can never again prevail, and they will soon fall into the great radical idea of equal rights to all men in all sections of our great country. Hoping and believing that a better spirit will soon prevail, growing out of our recent elections, without going into details, I recommend that you extend every encouragement within your constitutional power to immigration.

COMPENSATING LOYAL MEN FOR LOSSES.

After mature deliberation, I have determined to recommend to your favorable consideration the remuneration of loyal citizens of this State for losses sustained by the occupation of the country by the national armies. The passage of the so-called ordinance of secession, and the assumed transfer of the State to the so-called Southern Confederacy, placed Tennessee in the attitude of rebellion, and her people in the position of enemies to the National Government. The consequence was that upon the occupancy of the State by the national forces, our people were treated as enemies, with but little discrimination between the loyal and the disloyal. Their lands and houses were occupied, their property impressed or destroyed, and their provisions consumed. In East Tennessee this was done from necessity, by an unsupplied army, to an extent that reduced the people to absolute suffering. Thus far the Federal Government, classing Tennessee with the rebel States, and unwilling to assume the losses incurred in the whole South, has not regarded the applications of our loyal people for remuneration. I understand that similar losses by the citizens of Indiana, Pennsylvania and Ohio have been promptly assumed, and yet the nation knows, and the world knows, that a more loyal people than those in Tennessee who remained steadfast to the national cause, through so long and terrible an ordeal, are not to be found in the Union. But I cannot and will not lose confidence in the justice and magnanimity of the American people. I believe they will yet cheerfully repay the loyal sufferers among our people, many of whom were deprived of their property by the national forces, while they were themselves absent fighting for the national cause. But you, gentlemen, can afford present relief, relying upon the General Government hereafter to assume and pay these just and meritorious claims. I recommend that proper officers be appointed to ascertain and audit these claims, and that the bonds of the State of denominations from $50 to $100 be issued in payment. I am aware that this proposition will meet with fierce opposition from those who would give preference to the millions of debt contracted by the usurped State Government, or by rebel quartermasters. I am also aware that the objection will come from a better class upon the ground of so considerable an increase of the State debt; but if the American people are just, they will assume the amount long before it falls due, and, upon principle, treat the suffering loyalists of Tennessee as they have the loyalists of other States. Let such a law be well guarded in every respect, and if Congress does not at once assume the liability, and promptly meet the same, then we have elected eight able and loyal men to Congress to look after our interests to very little purpose.

INTEMPERANCE.

Throughout the length and breadth of Tennessee, distilleries and wholesale liquor-dealers are multiplying with frightful rapidity, and the increasing evils arising therefrom, call upon the friends of humanity and of religion to educate the public mind in opposition to this vice, and, if possible, to stay the tide that now bids fair to overwhelm and degrade society. Intemperance is blowing up steamboats, upsetting stage-coaches, and, through the carelessness of drunken engineers or switch-tenders, it is bringing trains in collision or running them off the track. All this appalling loss of life and limb, resulting from the wickedness, carelessness and contempt for human life of the owners, directors, superintendents, agents and employes on the various lines of travel, is attributable, in a great degree, to the vice of intemperance. A general revision of our State laws in reference to railroads and steamboats is believed to be needed. The least that can be done by the Legislature—and this ought to be satisfactory to the friends of morality and religion—is to authorize the prohibition of the traffic through the ballot-box once in two years, either by counties or civil districts. This would enable those who desire to rid themselves of the numerous and alarming evils of intemperance to do so legitimately, while it would enable those counties or civil districts who are "joined to their idols" to cling to them, and suffer the consequences.

THE CASE OF ISHAM G. HARRIS.

I advise the immediate repeal of the offer of a reward of $5,000 for the arrest and return of Ex-Gov. HARRIS. My opinion with regard to active, original secessionists, and the punishment due to them, have undergone no change. But no man has been punished for treason yet, from JEFFERSON DAVIS down; and the pro-rebel policy of the President warrants the conclusion that none will be punished. Besides, in Tennessee, during the late canvass, there were worse men upon the stump than HARRIS ever was, openly proclaiming treason and sedition, and inspiring the people with sectional malice. I advise the repeal of this offer from two other considerations—first, that of humanity toward the family of HARRIS; and next, but not least, that of economy on the part of the State. The State is liable to be called upon at any day for this reward, and in return she would have nothing to show for the outlay.

CONCLUSION.

Confiding in the intelligence and patriotism which induced your constituents to send you here as lawmakers, I assure you of my earnest desire to coöperate with you in all measures you may inaugurate for the common good. Coming here with the heavy majorities you are honored with, your action may mark your session as the epoch in our history when genuine progress asserted its sway in Tennessee. Honored in her past history, and her present claims fully responded to, we shall wipe out the foul stain of rebellion, and we may look forward to the future of Tennessee with the utmost confidence. It will be our highest honor to have jealously guarded the fame of our State, advanced her prosperity and developed her vast resources. Destiny and events, God and history, have assigned to Tennessee an important position in the great work of restoring the Union. Let us act well our part, and under Providence perform the great but agreeable work of fraternity, and love and loyalty toward the race of men.

W. G. BROWNLOW.

INTER-STATE REGATTA.

Last Day of the Races—Large Attendance of Spectators—A Foul Race and Consequent Excitement.

ALBANY, Thursday, Oct. 10, 1867.

The third and last day of the regatta on the river, between Troy and Lansingburgh, was attended by a large crowd to-day, who lined the east bank of the river along the course, very few, however, availing themselves of the advantages of a view furnished by the grand stand upon the island. The facilities of a view from the river bank, though contributing to the convenience of the multitude, operated disastrously to the financial success of the Association. The weather continued pleasant throughout the day, though at the commencement of the races the south wind ruffled the water somewhat. The first race was between our-oared shells, third degree, being pulled by men who never rowed a race before. Two boats contested—the J. R. Lindsley, entered by the Mutuals, of Albany, and pulled by H. WIGANT, stroke; JAMES BUCKBEE, G. SWARTZ, C. ARMITAGE, D. H. WALKER, coxswain; and the Smith Ring, entered by the Muzzled Club, of Newburgh, and pulled by D. MCMULLEN, stroke; J. H. STANTON, D. P. LISLE and THOMAS SHAW, Jr., bow.

The Ring took the lead, passing the grand stand about five lengths ahead, and increasing the distance to the close, when she came in nearly half a mile ahead in twenty-two minutes and eight seconds. Time of the Lindsley twenty-six minutes and two seconds. It is but fair to add that the Mutuals provided a boat for the Newburgh Club, and a crew to row against them in the Lindsley, in order to give them an opportunity to win.

The second race was between single sculls of the first degree. The Mutuals entered the C. G. Cook, rowed by CHAS. PIEPENBRINK; the Atalantas entered the Atalant, rowed by EDWARD SMITH; the Portland Club entered the Bob Williams, rowed by W. RANDAL, of Portland. The Union Club, of Boston, entered the Union, rowed by J. TYLER, Jr. This was the best contested and most exciting race of the day. The four boats passed the grand stand on the upward course nearly together; but the C. G. COOK gradually drew ahead, rounding the stake-boat slightly ahead, and keeping the lead for about a half mile on the homeward stretch, when one wrist gave out, and he fell behind. All the boats passed the stake-boat within 24 seconds, a distance of a mile and three-quarters from the start. After the mishap of PIPENBRINK, SMITH and RANDAL passed him quickly, and nearly together, SMITH being about one length ahead. The two boats maintained this position until the upper end of the island was reached; but about three hundred feet from home RANDAL closed up the gap, and attempted to pass. As he did so, the boats fouled—RANDAL's boat running her bow under SMITH's oar—which put an end to the race. Time for both boats, 26 minutes, 45 seconds. PIEPENBRINK came in several lengths behind, and TYLER fourth. Upon reaching the stake-boat, both RANDAL and SMITH put in claims of foul. At the time of the collision, RANDAL was nearest the island, and about 50 feet distant from it. If he had attempted to pass further than the island, it is probable that he would have grounded before reaching the judges' stand. He claimed that SMITH had attempted to foul him three times on the homeward stretch by crossing his bow, and at the close he had purposely crowded him so closely as either to force him ashore or make a foul inevitable. The judges consequently rendered their decision in favor of RANDAL. The decision created great excitement and angry discussions between the respective partisans; although its justice seemed to have been generally concurred in by the spectators. SMITH's friends deny that he purposely crossed RANDAL's bow, or that he crowded the latter to the shore, and assert that as he had the lead he had the right of way, and it was RANDAL's business to have avoided the foul. They complain, also, that the judges made their decision without giving him an opportunity to be heard. A considerable amount of money changed hands on the race. RANDAL was the favorite against the field.

The third race was between double-sculls—the Wink, rowed by EMERY and COOK; and the Josh Ward, rowed by STORY and KIDD. Both boats were entered by the Mutuals, of Albany, The Wink drew off before the race was ended, and it was won by the Josh Ward in twenty-six minutes and four seconds.

The last race of the day was between the same boats; the Wink being rowed by SNYDER and MAX, and the Josh Ward by COOK and FOLAND. The Wink won in about six lengths. Time not given.

The Association medals and badges were distributed to the successful competitors at the Troy House this evening.

THE OCTOBER ELECTIONS.

Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday, Oct. 10.

Forney's Press publishes a table of the election returns, giving reported majorities in fifty-one counties, by which SHARSWOOD has only six majority. The counties to hear from gave the Republicans 7,573 and the Democrats 6,200.

The Age, on the contrary, has returns from forty-one counties, giving 11,948 Democratic majority.

The Ledger publishes a list, which includes fifty-nine counties, showing a Democratic majority of 3,278 votes, with two counties to hear from, which gave last year 548 Republican majority.

LATEST DISPATCH.

PHILADELPHIA, Thursday, Oct. 10.

The Republican State Central Committee have additional returns, and with a liberal allowance for losses in their estimate for the remaining counties to be heard from, figure up a Republican majority of 2,000 in the State.

Ohio.

CINCINNATI, Thursday, Oct. 10.

This morning's Commercial says of the election in Ohio:

"Something over fifty counties have been heard from, and they leave THURMAN with a majority of about six thousand. The remaining twenty-five or thirty counties, embracing several in the region of the reserve, will certainly reduce these figures. Whether they will overbalance them and place the majority on the other side is, a question which seems likely to be decided only by the official returns. The Legislature appears to be hopelessly gone. The Democrats gain Senators in the Second, Third, Sixth, Seventh, Twelfth, Sixteenth and Twentieth Districts, and probably in the Thirteenth, giving them a clear majority in the Senate of one or two, and in the House they have secured a gain of eighteen members, making a majority, with a prospect of some others yet in doubt, which will give them a working balance of from five to ten on joint ballot."

The Gazette says:

"The returns from the State are still incomplete, and the election is very close, but the probability is that the Democrats have carried both Houses of the General Assembly. The Governor is in doubt, but with a probability that THURMAN is elected."

The Enquirer says:

"We estimate Judge THURMAN's majority at 2,169. The Legislature will stand as follows: In the Senate, seventeen Radicals to nineteen Democrats, and in the House, fifty Radicals to fifty-six Democrats, thus giving a Democratic majority of eight on joint ballot."

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Thursday, Oct. 10—4:15 P. M.

The election returns show that HAYES is, without doubt, elected Governor by a majority of from 1,000 to 2,000, and that the Legislature is Democratic by a small majority. Carroll, Hocking and Noble Counties are yet to hear from.

LATEST RETURNS.

COLUMBUS, Thursday, Oct. 10.

Complete returns, partially official, give HAYES, (Republican,) 2,925 majority. The Democrats gain two more Representatives. They have the House by 56 to 49, and a majority on a joint ballot of 8.

Later.—The latest returns reduce HAYES' majority to 2,848. The Democrats concede his election by majorities ranging from 400 to 1,000. The State ticket entire is elected.

The Iowa Election.

MCGREGOR, Iowa, Thursday, Oct. 10.

The Causes of Defeat.

From the Pittsburgh Chronicle.

If it shall appear on a final showing that the Democracy have succeeded in carrying the State of Pennsylvania, it will furnish a valuable lesson to the Republican Party. It will show the party that on great national issues it is yet strong, and can yet conquer if it will purge itself of corrupt and violent politicians, and faithfully adhere to the programme which gave it success in the past. It cannot elect such legislative bodies as the last Legislature of this State, and expect to retain permanently the confidence of the masses. A strong party must not abuse its strength. It must rely upon its intelligence and virtue as the chief sources of its vitality and power.

The Ohio Election.

From the Pittsburgh Chronicle.

There were some features, too, in the conduct of the late political campaign, which did not indicate much judgment on the part of party managers. The speeches of Hon. BENJAMIN F. WADE, in Ohio, were in the worst possible taste, and did serious injury to the party. They not only exasperated the conservative Democrats, but they must have alienated many moderate Republicans from the cause. If the spirit of WADE's harangues were to become general in the North, there could be no other result but a civil war among ourselves, and the effort to keep up animosities, which might have had some foundation during the continuance of the rebellion, only reacted to the injury of the parties engaged in it.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

METROPOLITAN FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Orders of the Chief Engineer—Annual Report of the Commissioners.

Chief-Engineer KINGSLAND has addressed the following circular to the members of the Metropolitan Fire Department:

"The season of the year is approaching in which an increase in the number of fires may be looked for. The erection of stoves and other apparatus for heating, and the repeated kindling of fires therein is always attended with more or less risk. Against the carelessness of those to whom we are indebted for most of our fire alarms, there is no protection within the Department, but against extensive conflagrations likely to result from that carelessness, the Department possesses means which must be exercised to their fullest capacity. Not the least important and valuable among the elements of our strength is the vigilance which the patrols are called upon to exercise, and the alacrity with which every member responds to the telegraph signal. This vigilance, this alacrity must be exercised at any cost. It will be remembered that five minutes energetic service when a fire first breaks out, is worth fifty minutes a half hour later. Every nerve will be strained therefore to subdue fires on their discovery, and the utmost effort put forth to get the first stream of water on, which, in nine cases out of ten, if no delay occurs, will be sufficient to prevent their spreading to any magnitude. The Chief Engineer is not insensible to the promptness and energy displayed, and which has heretofore characterized the operations of the force under his command, and he feels confident that it is only necessary to remind the members of the Department of the increased dangers which cold weather brings with it, to insure an increase of vigilance and devotion on their part."

The following general order was promulgated:

First—On the second alarm being given for a fire every Company in the Department, not doing duty at the fire, will hitch up horses, and every member will be required to be at his engine or truck-house, and there remain until the nearest company doing duty at the fire has returned.

Second—Should a fire occur in another locality during service on a second alarm, the nearest companies will, without delay, proceed to the station indicated.

By order of ELISHA KINGSLAND,
Chief-Engineer.

The annual reports of the Commissioners for the years 1865 and 1866 give an interesting account of the present condition of the Department. After setting forth the nature of the reforms that were required when the Department passed under the control of the Commissioners, it is stated that the Department, after making proper inquiry in regard to steam fire-engines in service in other cities as well as in the City of New-York, adopted the steam fire engine manufactured by the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company, of Manchester, N.H. A contract has been made with that corporation for fifteen engines, of which five have been delivered and thoroughly tested to the satisfaction of the Department. The hose in use by the Volunteer Department was found to be in very bad condition, no supply of new hose having been furnished for two years. The Department contracted with manufacturers for 35,000 feet of double-rivetted hose (leather.)

The following is the organization of the active force of the Department for the City and County of New-York:

A chief-engineer, an assistant-engineer and ten district engineers, all of whom are required to devote their entire time to the service of the Department, and three engineers for duty in the suburbs of the City, who are required to perform duty only on alarms of fire. In the City proper steam fire-engine companies, each composed of a foreman, an assistant foreman, an engineer of steamer, a driver, a stoker and seven firemen, in all twelve men; and hook and ladder companies, each composed of a foreman, an assistant foreman, a driver and a tillerman and eight firemen, in all twelve men. The men composing such companies to be permanently employed in the service of the Department. Of the steam fire-engine companies there have been organized thirty-four, and of the hook and ladder companies twelve. The apparatus in use by these companies to be drawn by horses.

In the suburbs of the City the organization is as follows: That part of the County of New-York known as Yorkville, Harlem, Manhattanville and Carmansville, engine and hook and ladder companies, composed of not exceeding fifty men each, who are privileged to follow their usual avocations, doing duty on alarm of fires only, and receiving therefor as compensation a stipulated sum annually to the company fund. For this service there has been organized five engine companies and three hook and ladder companies. The salaries paid the officers and men were as follows:

Chief Engineer, $3,000; assistant to Chief Engineer, $2,000; district engineers, each $1,200; foremen of companies, $800; assistant foremen, $750; steamer engineer, $900; drivers, stokers, tillermen and firemen, each $700; engineers in suburbs, each $400; fire companies in suburbs, each $1,000.

Of the real estate and personal property, there has been delivered to the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New-York, pursuant to section 18 of the act, two buildings and lots owned in fee, and four buildings and lots held under lease by said City of New-York, to the value of about $150,000. There has also been sold old apparatus and other personal property not needed by this Department, to the amount of $3,563 87, the proceeds of which will be paid to the Comptroller of said City. The receipts and expenditures for account of this Department are fully set forth in the report of the Treasurer hereto appended, by which it will appear that the gross amount of expenditures of this Department up to and including Dec. 1, 1865, was $2,2,528 24. The amount expended by the City of New-York for the Volunteer Fire Department, in the year 1864, as nearly as can be ascertained, was $537,431 02. During the past year there have been frequent and disastrous fires in buildings in which cotton in large quantities has been stored. It may be well to consider whether it would not be advisable to have legislative action regulating the storage of cotton similar to acts which have been passed in relation to the storage of petroleum and other highly inflammable commodities. The Commissioners bear testimony to the hearty coöperation and efficient aid of the Police Commissioners and the force under their command, in sustaining and carrying into effect the provisions of the law.

N. Y. STATE WOMAN'S HOSPITAL.

Formal Opening of the Institution—Addresses by the President and Others.

Public exercises appropriate to the opening of the New-York State Woman's Hospital, corner of Forty-ninth-street and Fourth-avenue, took place there yesterday. It is not generally known that the institution began its work in a house built for a private dwelling, on Madison-avenue, under the care of a Board of Lady Managers, in 1855. Their first annual report states that the Hospital had received sixty-one inmates, and had a larger number of outdoor patients, and that "from the far West, and from the extreme South, patients have journeyed painfully on, to this promised haven of relief, nor have their hopes in any one case been disappointed. Released from suffering, restored again to vigor and health, they have returned to their distant homes to tell to other despairing sufferers the mercies and blessings of the Woman's Hospital."

The main building is 160 feet in length by 40 in breadth, and is built of brick ornamented with handsome stone facings. The first floor contains reception-rooms and sleeping apartments, fitted up with every requisite for comfort and convenience. The upper floors are devoted to sick wards and are supplied with ample accommodations in the way of closets, bath-rooms, &c. On the third story is the operating room, which is overlooked by a gallery intended for medical students. An elevator, worked by the engine of the laundry, supplies facilities for ascending to and descending from the upper portions of the edifice. Adjoining the main building is the laundry. In the basement are located two powerful steam boilers and a steam pump for heating purposes. On the upper floor are the washing-machines, capable of washing 2,000 pieces per diem, an elaborate mangling-machine and the drying room. The Board of Managers state that the funds of the institution are nearly exhausted, and they solicit further contributions.

Yesterday, Mr. JAMES W. BEEKMAN presided. After prayer by Rev. C. D. FOSS, and a brief address by Mr. BEEKMAN, in which the history of the institution was succinctly reviewed, an address was delivered by Dr. B. FORDYCE BARKER.

Dr. BARKER said he was the only physician now living in the City who was thoroughly acquainted with the early history of the institution. He knew the zeal with which the profession welcomed the discovery that a surgical disease of the most distressing character, which the resources of art had heretofore failed to reach, was now by the genius and skill of Dr. SIMS radically cured by one or more operations. It was evident soon after this discovery was made, that a special hospital was necessary to render available its benefits to a great majority of those requiring the operation. The Woman's Hospital Association was founded in February, 1855, with a Board of Managers consisting of thirty-four ladies. It is the work of woman for the benefit of woman. The hospital was opened on the 4th of May, 1855, with forty beds, and during the twelve years that have elapsed since that time over 400 cases have been cured of the most loathsome infirmity that woman is ever called upon to bear, by which she is debarred from all society and made a burden to herself, and an infirmity which before was, as a rule, incurable. Within twelve years, too, 1,219 cases have been discharged, cured or greatly relieved. New-York City could now point with proud satisfaction to the institutions which she now possesses for the relief of human suffering. The speaker here made mention of the various charitable medical institutions in the City, and spoke of the advantages they offered to the public. In again referring to the New-York State Woman's Hospital he said that not many years hence this beautiful edifice, which may now be said to be on the outskirts of the City, will be near the centre of a most prosperous and wealthy population. Who could estimate the incalculable amount of relief to human suffering which this institution is destined to afford—the number of desolate and loathsome wives, of wretched and helpless mothers, who will be restored to health and happiness? Dr. BARKER next paid a feeling compliment to the Surgeon in charge of the institute, and ended his address with an expression of confidence in the success of the good work thus begun.

Rev. Dr. ADAMS next addressed the meeting. He said he never envied Dr. SIMS, but he did rejoice in the thought of the deep delight which Dr. SIMS and his associates must have felt in the marvelous success which attended their efforts.

Short addresses were also made by Dr ALFRED C. POST and Rev. Dr. DURYEA, after which prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. ADAMS. The exercises were closed with singing and the Benediction.

The officers of the institution are: JAMES W. BEEKMAN, President; APPOLLOS R. WETMORE, Vice-President; JOSEPH B. COLLINS, Treasurer; JOHN W. QUINCY, Secretary.

There is also a Board of Governors, consisting of twenty-seven of our most prominent citizens.

THE NEW COURT-HOUSE.

What it has Already Cost, and What it is Likely to Cost when Finished—Profligate Expenditure of County Funds—Letter from the Citizens' Association.

The Citizens' Association have addressed a letter to Mr. HENRY B. SMITH, President of the Board of Supervisors, relative to the new Court-house. The following are the most material portions of the document:

CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION OF NEW-YORK, }
No. 813 BROADWAY, Oct. 8, 1867. }

DEAR SIR: The Citizens' Association respectfully asks the attention of the Board of Supervisors to the subject matter of this communication, viz., the New County Court-house.

The first legislation upon this subject was in the year 1857, when the Legislature passed an act appointing five Commissioners to superintend the erection of a new City Hall in this City.

Nothing, however, was done under this or subsequent acts until 1861, when the County having acquired title to the present site, the Board of Supervisors proceeded with the erection of the County Court-house. Supervisor WILLIAM R. STEWART, (who remained a member of the Board and of the Special Court-house Committee until Jan. 1, 1867,) in his address on the occasion of laying the cornerstone of the building, (Dec. 27, 1861,) among other things, said: "By the act of 1861, the Board were authorized to raise the sum of $50,000 in addition to the $100,000 authorized by the act of 1860, (making in all $150,000.) This sum, it is apparent to all, is entirely inadequate to the erection of such a building as is required by the wants of the City and such as is now in progress. The Supervisors, after mature reflection, arrived at the conclusion that in order to prevent the delays and increased expense necessarily attendant upon preparing completed plans and providing for the performance of the work by contract, it was best to have the work commenced under the direction of a Committee of their Board and proceeded with by day's work during the Fall and Winter months. To have prepared complete plans and specifications, and to have given the work out by contract under the present circumstances would almost of necessity have delayed the commencement of the work until next Spring, and every day lost in the finishing of the building is an additional loss to the County and the public."

It is to be regretted that the Board of Supervisors has never manifested the same desire to complete as to begin the Court-house.

It appears that the Commissioners appointed under the Act of 1858, authorizing the Supervisors to raise for the purpose of a new City Hall a sum not exceeding $250,000, declined to proceed with their work on the ground that in the opinion of their counsel they had no power or right under the act to erect a section or portion of the building, without building it entire, so as to accommodate all the Courts and departments mentioned in the act; and that, therefore, they could not proceed to erect the building as the sum authorized was inadequate for the purpose.

The Board of Supervisors, although authorized in 1861 to raise $150,000 for this purpose, does not seem to have had similar scruples in the premises, but appears to have thought that the appropriation of a specific sum for a specific purpose carries with it no implication whatever that the purpose must be consummated with the exact appropriation.

For the new County Court-house, the following appropriations have been authorized:

1860, Amount raised by tax....	$100,000
1861, Amount raised by tax....	50,000
1865, Amount raised by tax....	300,000
1866, Amount raised by tax....	500,000
1867, Amount raised by tax....	800,000—	$1,750,000
1862, Amount authorized by act of Legislature for which stock was issued..................	1,000,000
1864, Amount authorized by act of Legislature for which stock was issued..................	800,000—	1,800,000
Total..........................		$3,550,000

This, with the interest, makes the cost up to Jan. 1, 1868, about......................$4,161,326

Another important fact in connection with the history of the Court-house is the manner in which the iron contract was given out. Mayor GUNTHER addressed a communication on this subject to your Board on April 4, 1864, wherein, referring to the letters received by him from three highly respectable firms, he says: "If the statements made in the documents to which I direct your attention are true—and there can be little doubt when three respectable firms come forward and substantially agree—then it is clear, first, that the contract for the iron work was awarded without giving public notice or even an intimation to some of the principal houses engaged in iron manufacture in this City and vicinity; and, secondly, that the prices for the work, as contained in the bids of the parties to whom the contract was awarded, are far beyond those that a man of the meanest capacity would allow in his own business transactions. The conclusion is irresistible, either that the special Committee on the new Court-house was deceived by the fraudulent representations of interested parties, or acted without due investigation in recommending so disadvantageous a contract to your honorable body for confirmation."

The report of the Special Court-house Committee, made Sept. 23, 1863, stated that they had received bids for the iron-work "from the most responsible houses in that line of business in the City," and on Nov. 17, in accordance with the report of the Committee, a contract was entered into with J. B. & W. W. CORNELL & Co. for iron-work at prices mentioned in their bid, hereinafter given.

No bids were advertised for, as the importance of the subject and justice to the public would seem to have demanded, but the following proposals were received by the Committee:

NAMES.	Iron window frames and trimmings..........	Iron stairs and wainscoting..........	Iron doors, folding shutters, fans and trimmings..........	Wrought iron girders..........	Rolled bearers for floors, with knee-pieces, bolts, anchors, &c.	Iron dome, roof and frame for supporting ceiling under roof.
Geo. R. Jackson.....	18 3-10	18 7-10	19¼	15 7-10	12	18

F. H. Grosz......	18	18	19	16	11½	18
J. B. & W. W. Cornell & Co..................	18	17¾	18¼	15½	11½	16

NAMES.	Area grating of wrought iron........	Anchors for stone work.	Window and door lintels.	Illuminating tile........	Ceiling plates.

F. H. Grosz..............	9	8	4¾	6	50
J.B.&W.W.Cornell & Co.	9⅛	7⅛	4⅜	6	45

Mayor GUNTHER'S attention being directed to this subject, he addressed a letter to a number of firms engaged in the business, asking whether they had received any application from the Board of Supervisors or from the special Court-house Committee to present estimates for furnishing the iron-work, and at what prices they would have furnished the iron-work at the time of awarding the contract, and what were then fair and reasonable prices on the same.

The answers received to the Mayor's letter showed the following estimates:

NAMES.	Iron window frames and trimmings......	Iron stairs and wainscotings..........	Iron doors, folding shutters, fans and trimmings..........	Wrought iron girders....	Rolled bearers for floors, with knee-pieces, bolts, anchors, &c....	Iron dome, roof and frame for supporting ceiling under roof.....
The Architectural Iron Works......	10	10	12½	11	8	10
Jas. Fowler, Kirkland & Co........	12½	10	12½	11½	9	9
Jas. L. Jackson & Brother..........	10	12	12½	12	10	11

NAMES.	Area grating of wrought iron........	Anchors for stone work.	Window and door lintels.	Illuminating tile........	Ceiling plates.
The Architectural Iron Works............	8	7	5	$6	12½
James Fowler, Kirkland & Co....................	8	7	4	6	..
Jas. L. Jackson & Bro....	8	7½	4½	6	45

The Architectural Iron Works, in their reply dated 1864, say that they were not invited to estimate for the work, and also, "the first intimation we had of any such proceedings was the public report thereof, although we had expressed a desire to compete for the work repeatedly, and had been consulted on some of the details of it, and had endeavored to give some information in certain portions and details, and fully expected to have had an opportunity to compete for the same;" and also, "there are but five firms in this City at all calculated to do this work—namely, George R. Jackson & Co., James L. Jackson & Brother, J. B. & W. W. Cornell & Co., James Fowler Kirklank & Co., and the Architectural Iron Works. Three of these were not invited to bid on the work, nor had they any knowledge it was in the market. Such was our case and the rest so inform us. Two of those who were asked to bid, and whose bids are quoted, have no foundry, and never melted a ton of iron in their lives, as everybody knows, and do not pretend to know the trade of foundrymen, and, beside, had no facilities of room to do such a job."

In their reply to Mayor GUNTHER, dated March 25, 1864, JAMES FOWLER, KIRKLAND & Co. say: "We beg to inform you that we were not applied to at any time to furnish estimates for the above work. * * * * We beg also to mention that we applied to Mr. KELLUM, Architect and Superintendent of the Board, to allow us an opportunity of estimating on the work; that he promised to call on us when the plans and specifications were ready. We heard no more of them until we were informed that the work was contracted for."

In their reply to Mayor GUNTHER, dated March 23, 1864, JAMES L. JACKSON & BROTHER say: "We never received any application either from the Special Committee or any member of the Board to give an estimate for the said iron-work. We would further state that during the suspension of the said work last Summer we made application to some members of the Board, stating to them that we had facilities equal to any other establishment in the City for executing said work, and that we would like to have an opportunity to estimate on the work. We were promised that when they were ready we should be notified, and should have an opportunity of giving an estimate, in fair competition with others."

It would thus appear that there was a mistake in the statement of the Committee that they had received proposals for the iron work "from the most responsible houses in that line of business in the City."

It would also appear that the Committee did not take proper steps to obtain such proposals.

The corner-stone of the building was laid, as is mentioned above, Dec. 27, 1861. Mr. Supervisor STEWART then stated in his address that the building would be ready for occupancy within less than two years, and he also said that "every day lost in the finishing of the building is an additional loss to the County and the public." This was nearly six years ago, and the structure is still unfinished, to the great "loss of the County and the public."

The work of erecting the building was under the superintendence of the Commissioners appointed by virtue of the act of 1858, from November, 1861, until 1863, when the Supervisors resumed the control of the whole matter, and gave it into the hands of a Special Committee. The Board of Supervisors have had full and complete control of the matter for four years, and yet the building is far from being completed.

The object of constructing a new County Court-house is supposed to be to accommodate public officers with facilities for the transaction of the public business. It is true, as was said by Supervisor STEWART six years ago, that "every day lost in the finishing of the building is an additional loss to the County and the public." The days lost have now become years. The rents and repairs of the offices that the new County Court-house should have saved, if it had been completed in reasonable time, for the past five years, are as follows:

1862....Rents and repairs..................	$30,680 40
1863....Rents and repairs..................	43,016 69
1864....Rents and repairs..................	41,227 68
1865....Rents and repairs..................	51,650 05
1866....Rents and repairs..................	50,935 23
Total................................	$217,509 96

It will thus be seen that the City and County, by the delay in the construction of a proper building for the accommodation of public offices, has lost in rents and repairs about $217,509 96.

The Association would call the attention of the Board to the fact that in Brooklyn the erection of a new County Court-house was commenced about the time of the commencement of the new County Court-house here, and has been completed for several years. The entire cost of this building, including site and furniture, was but $549,636 43.

The Association calls your attention to the rumor that is gaining strength every day that it is the intention of your Board to crown the building with a grand "iron dome," estimated to cost nearly one million of dollars more. If this rumor should prove to be well founded and the Court-house should be furnished after the same extravagant manner that prevails in furnishing "armories and drill-rooms," under the supervision of your Board, the probability is that the ultimate cost of the building will amount to over six millions of dollars.

In conclusion, the Association would call the attention of your Board to the following summary, showing the cost of the new County Court-house up to Jan. 1, 1868:

Appropriations raised by tax and by stock..................................	$3,550,000 00
Interest on same to Jan. 1, 1868.........	611,326 00
Total appropriation and interest....	$4,161,326 00
Add five years' rents and repairs of offices................................	217,509 96
Making a total of..................	$4,378,835 96

In view of the facts recited, and of other grave matters connected with the history of the County Court-house, and affecting so severely all those whose labor promotes the welfare of the whole community, the Citizens' Association has appointed the following Committee to confer with the Board of Supervisors in relation thereto, and respectfully request that the Board will appoint a committee to confer with the Committee appointed by the Association at an early day.

The Committee is as follows:

Charles Tracy, Wm. Wood, Paul N. Spofford, Benj. D. Silliman, John A. Weeks, John H. Sherwood, Samuel S. Constant, Benj. H. Hutton, Peter Moller, Moses G. Baldwin, Alex. M. Ross, Richard M. Henry, Joseph F. Daly.

Very respectfully, yours, PETER COOPER,
Chairman Citizens' Association.
RICHARD M. HENRY, Secretary.

Board of Aldermen—The License Ordinances in Force Again—Communication from the Mayor.

This Board met at 2 P. M., yesterday, Mr. LOEW in the chair.

The following communication from the Mayor was received:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, NEW-YORK, Oct. 10, 1867.

To the Honorable the Common Council:

GENTLEMEN: By a clause inserted in the County Tax Levy of 1867, all the powers of the Mayor and Common Council in respect to theatres, emigrant boarding-houses, junkshop-keepers, pawnbrokers, venders, hawkers, peddlers, dealers in second-hand articles, keepers of intelligence offices, auctioneers, hackney coaches and carriages, and the owners and drivers thereof, carts and carmen, cabs and cabmen, public porters, hand cartmen, omnibuses and omnibus drivers, cars and car drivers, were transferred to the Board of Metropolitan Police, to the same extent and with like effect as if said Board was named in the ordinances of the Common Council.

It was well known that this clause was surreptitiously inserted in the Tax Levy at the very close of the legislative session—that it was never discussed even in the legislative Committee, and was entirely unnoticed by large numbers of the Legislature.

Your Honorable Body, justly indignant at this kind of legislation, and with a view of defeating it if possible, promptly, on the 24th day of April, 1867, repealed all the ordinances relating to the various classes and occupations affected by it, and I at once approved your action.

With the consent and by the authority of your Honorable Body, I immediately instituted proceedings in the Supreme Court to test the constitutionality of the law in question, and to protect the rights of the municipality.

The Supreme Court unanimously rendered a decision in favor of the City and against the constitutionality of the law.

The Police Commissioners appealed to the Court of Appeals.

I have the honor now to inform your Honorable Body that the Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the decision of the Supreme Court.

The rights of the City have thus been vindicated in the highest Court of the State, and the fraud attempted to be practiced upon the Legislature and the people has been properly rebuked.

In order that the public business, which has been so long suspended by the act in question, may be promptly resumed, I respectfully recommend that your Honorable Body should immediately repeal the rescinding resolution which was adopted April 24, 1867, reserving the question of a revision and correction of all the ordinances for more deliberate consideration.

In view also of the fact that persons whose licenses have expired pending the litigation referred to, have been prevented by the operation of the law from obtaining renewals of such licenses, I respectfully recommend that the Mayor be authorized to issue new licenses to them upon the payment merely of the renewal fee as fixed by the old ordinances. This would, it seems clear, be just and proper.

JOHN T. HOFFMAN, Mayor.

In connection therewith Mr. HARDY offered the following resolutions, which were adopted:

Resolved, That the resolution adopted April 24, 1867, annulling and repealing all the ordinances of the Common Council existing at that time, and relating to theatres and places of public amusement, keepers of boarding-houses for emigrant passengers, junk shop keepers and junk boatmen, pawnbrokers, venders, hawkers and peddlers, dealers in second-hand articles, keepers of intelligence offices, auctioneers, hackney coaches and carriages, and their owners and drivers, carts and carmen, cabs and cabmen, public porters, omnibuses and their drivers, cars and their drivers, be and the same is hereby rescinded and repealed.

Resolved, That all persons who may have held licenses under the ordinances of the Common Council existing prior to April 24, 1867, and whose licenses have expired pending the litigation growing out of section twelve of the Tax Levy for 1867, and for that reason have been unable to obtain renewals, be entitled to new licenses on the payment of the renewal fee prescribed in such ordinances.

The Mayor's communication was placed on file, and the Board adjourned to Monday next at 2 P. M.

The President of the Society, Mr. BERGH, has received a communication from Mr. WM. T. LYMAN, in which he says that the enterprise of slaughtering near the farms and transporting dressed meat to this City in refrigerating cars has been proved practicable. A car has been built and the first trip made successfully, so far as the keeping of the meat in a perfectly nice and untainted condition is concerned. Sixteen steers and 123 sheep, constituting the load, were dressed on the 12th and 14th inst. A. M., in Newark, Ohio, 160 miles west of Pittsburgh, arriving here on the 19th inst., (yesterday.) The car was opened, and the meat was pronounced perfectly sound and sweet.

Board of Audit.

The Board yesterday resumed the examination of claims of newspapers for advertising.

The New-York Day Book presented claims amounting to $423 15 for advertising City and County canvass in 1864-5-6. Claimants could not prove that the Day Book had ever been appointed a Corporation paper, and the Corporation Counsel objected to the claim on that ground, and also objected to one of the bills on the ground that a suit had been brought upon it and failed—the Board being excluded by law from entertaining such claims. In answer to this, claimants presented a resolution of Board of Canvassers authorizing the advertisement.

The NEW-YORK TIMES presented bills for official advertising amounting to $19,998 75, and extending over the years 1863-4-5-6-7. At the suggestion of the Board, the consideration of this claim was postponed till to-day, in order that the different items might be separated and classified under their different heads of City and County advertising.

The New-York World submitted bills amounting to $13,167 40, being the balance due for advertising from 1861 to 1866. The accuracy of the bills was sworn to by the chief clerk in the publication office, and proof was given of the appointment of the World as one of the Corporation papers.

The New-York Leader presented a claim of $6,297 51, for official advertising for the years 1864-5-6. This was also one of the Corporation papers.

The Irish People produced a claim of $288 for advertising the official City canvass for 1866, by authority of the Board of Canvassers. The paper never had been appointed a Corporation journal, and this was offered by the Corporation counsel as a bar to the claim.

The Commercial Advertiser presented bills amounting to $13,500 for advertising from July 1, 1864, to date. Proof was submitted that the Advertiser was designated a Corporation paper in 1852, and that no notice had been given since that time that it had been discontinued as one of the official papers.

The Board then adjourned to 12 M. to-day, when the consideration of newspaper claims will be continued.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

MUNICIPAL AND LEGISLATIVE POWERS—PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS AND "PUBLIC PURPOSES."

E. H. Larned, plaintiff in error vs. The City of Burlington.—In error to the Circuit Court for the district of Iowa.

This case raises the question of the validity of certain bonds executed by the Mayor and Recorder of the City of Burlington, under a provision of the city charter, which allows the city authorities when the Council shall deem it expedient to borrow money "for any public purpose." The bonds were issued in aid of the Burlington and Mount Pleasant Plank Road Company, and the questions to be determined are whether the investment of the city funds was in aid of a public purpose, and whether the city charter in respect of such authority, was constitutional. The judgment below was for the defendants against the validity of the bonds and the constitutionality of the charter. Mr. Justice CLIFFORD delivered the opinion of the Court:

The present case, in many of its features, is like the preceding. It was an action of debt to recover the amount of two bonds, each for $1,000, with interest at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum. They were issued on the 17th day of June, 1852, under an ordinance of the City to authorize a loan, to be invested in the stock of the plank-road company mentioned in the declaration. Allegations of the declaration were substantially the same as in the preceding case. Corporation defendants appeared and demurred to the declaration, and showed for cause: (1) That the Mayor and Recorder of the City had no power to issue the bonds; (2) That the section of the Charter of the City mentioned in the declaration conferred no authority on the City to issue the bonds for the purpose stated; (3) That the purpose for which the bonds were issued, as alleged, was not a public purpose.

Parties were heard and the Court sustained the demurrer, and, the plaintiff electing to stand upon the declaration, the Court rendered judgment for the defendants, and the plaintiff removed the same into this Court by writ of error. Both parties agree that the questions presented for decision in this case are the same as in the preceding case, and it must be decided in the same way. All of the reasons assigned for the decision in that case are equally applicable in this case, and we have but few additional remarks to make in support of our conclusion. Cases involving the validity of the bonds given by municipal corporations as material aid in the construction of railroads have frequently been before the Court, and whenever they have come up they have uniformly received the attentive consideration of the Court. Protests in the proceedings of the Board of County Commissioners were suggested in the case of Knox County vs. Aspinwall (21 How., 539); but the Court held that the Board were the proper judges whether or not a majority of the votes in the county had been cast in the favor of the subscriptions to the stock, and that where the bonds on their face imputed a compliance with the law under which they were issued, the purchaser and holder for value, was not bound to look further for evidence of a compliance with the conditions in the grant of power. Precisely the same rule was applied to cities in the case of Bissel vs. Jeffersonville, (24 How., 299), where it was again held that it was too late to make such objections as against innocent holders, or even against the railroad, when it appeared that the bonds purporting on their face to have been executed by authority, had been issued and delivered. Very stringent application of the same rule was made in the case of Mercer County vs. Hackett, (1 Wall. 83,) which is the last of the series to which reference will be made. All these cases, proceeding upon the ground that the construction of a railroad for travel and transportation was a public improvement, and that it was competent for the Legislature to authorize municipal Corporations to furnish material aid for such a work, and we have no doubt that the views of the Court were entirely correct. Like the preceding, the present case has respect to a plank-road, but we repeat that where such an improvement is authorized by the Legislature, and is connected with the municipality issuing the bonds, the case properly falls within the same rule. It follows that the declaration was sufficient, and that the demurrer should have been overruled.

The judgment of the Circuit Court is therefore reversed, with costs, and the case remanded for further proceedings, in conformity with the opinion of this Court.

THE TRADESMEN'S BANK DEFALCATION.

An examination in the case of James Arnold, second teller of the Tradesmen's Bank, charged with embezzling the funds of that institution, was had before Commissioner OSBORN, in the United States Circuit Court room, yesterday.

Mr. Richard Berry, President of the bank, testified that the duties of Mr. Arnold as second teller were de novo every day, and that the cash of the bank was centered in the hands of the first teller.

The second teller collects pay for discount notes and proceeds for foreign credits, &c. All the cash he receives is paid over each day to the first teller. The bank has three ledgers and all the entries are classified alphabetically. On the 17th day of June, when the books were examined by the directors, they found that Samuel Quincy deposited $2,547 27, and that the entry was made in the book the following day. John Kavanagh also deposited on the 17th of June $476 76, and on the 18th of June Mr. Arnold made the entry. The total amount of the deposits thus made on the 17th of June was $58,938 51.

With reference to the deposit checks received on the 17th of June, Assistant District-Attorney Bell asked that the checks, thirty-one in number, together with the amounts, be recorded by the stenographer.

The names of the depositors and the amounts of the checks were then called off by the witness, and the handwriting of most of the entries on the bank books was identified by him as that of Mr. Arnold. Three of the entries were made by the bookkeeper.

Mr. Bell also desired a record to be made that two of the deposit slips dated the 15th of June were entered on the 18th. The total amount of the slips was $47,432.

All these slips were submitted subject to the objection of Judge Beebe, counsel for the defence.

Slips amounting to $37,450 92, found in the bank on the 12th of August, and not entered in the books of the bank that day, were then examined and put in evidence. The witness testified that it was the duty of the second teller or his assistant to take the slips from the book and enter them in the books the same day they are received.

The witness also examined the dealer's books, and testified to the deposits made on the 10th of August, which do not appear on Mr. Arnold's account for that day. Among these deposits were those of C. M. Bailey for $958 10, Rudolph Wolfe for $524 68, Samuel Quincy for $865 26 and A. Van Winkle for $1,049 91, which were entered in the pass-books on the 10th of August, and in the cash-book of the bank on the 12th of August. All the entries appear in Mr. Arnold's handwriting. A large number of deposit slips for various amounts were next examined and offered in evidence. Some of the entries of the slips were in the handwriting of Mr. Arnold, and others in the handwriting of the book-keeper and assistant teller.

The examination will doubtless occupy several days.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART III.

Before Judge Welles and a Jury.

THE EXPLOSION OF FIREWORKS IN JOHN-STREET—CASE SUBMITTED TO THE JURY.

Christina Fillo, Executrix, &c., vs. Thomas J. Jones.—The trial of this action, particulars of which were published in our columns Thursday, was continued. When the plaintiff's testimony was all in, the counsel for defendant made a motion to dismiss the complaint, for the reasons that it had not been shown that defendant had been guilty of any carelessness or neglect of duty in keeping the fireworks in his store at No. 16 John-street; that he had violated no law; that there was no evidence in the case tending to show what caused the fire; and moreover, that the husband of the plaintiff was guilty of negligence in not having saved himself from being burned so seriously that he died six days afterward. The testimony, said counsel, shows that at the time the fire broke out on the first floor occupied by defendant in August, 1865, the deceased husband was conducting the business of a furrier on the upper floor of the same building; that some six or eight other persons, his employes, were in the same room with him; that all of these employes save one, Mrs. Catharine Cleeves, escaped from the premises unharmed; that deceased might have saved himself from harm except from the fact that he went back to get his watch, after he had gone down stairs. The defendant also contended that after the alarm of fire was given he staid some little time on his premises to gather up his furs; and then again, that the evidence showed he might have escaped by way of the roof.

The Court denied the motion for a dismissal of the complaint, and defendant introduced several witnesses, who gave testimony tending to sustain the position taken by defendant's counsel in his motion for a non-suit. It appears that a day or two after the accident the now deceased husband stated to a confidential friend at the New-York Hospital that, after the alarm of fire was given, he stayed to pack up some of his furs, and that after he started to go out he thought of his watch in his vest pocket up stairs, and returned for it, and he thought that, but for this, he might have saved his life.

When the testimony was all in, Judge WELLES charged the jury briefly and substantially as follows, on all the important points of the case:

In order to sustain the action against the defendant the Judge said the plaintiff was first bound to prove satisfactorily to the jury that defendant had been guilty of such culpable negligence as superinduced the injuries that resulted in the death of Mr. Fillo. They must first take up that part of it and if they found he had not been guilty of such negligence, they would dismiss the matter and render a verdict for the defendant. If otherwise, they would proceed to inquire if Mr. Fillo was chargeable with negligence, because, if he was, no matter if defendant was negligent, the plaintiff in this action could not recover. If they found against defendant on both these points they would then proceed to the question of damages. As to the cause of the fire the Court thought there could be no difference of opinion. It must have been occasioned by the explosion or ignition of the fireworks in defendant's store which was on the first floor. The testimony would also lead one to suppose that it was the result of spontaneous combustion. The plaintiff claims that there were stored there a peculiarly dangerous kind of fireworks, known as colored signal lights. As to the nature of these, and the various other descriptions of fireworks in store there, they had the advantage of the testimony of Prof. Doremus, who, for the purpose of explaining the character of the materials of which they were composed, had made various experiments in the presence of the Court and jury. The Judge said he had rarely, if ever, met, in the course of his whole life, a more intelligent chemist than Prof. Doremus, or a witness who, being called as an expert, could more readily make himself understood to common minds, and, at the same time, give satisfactory reasons for the positions taken by him. This witness says colored lights are more explosive, and hence more dangerous than plain signal lights, and he gave the reasons why they are so. He also says that all of them are more or less liable to spontaneous combustion. Whether or not there were any of these colored signal lights in the store at the time of the fire, was a question of fact for the jury. There was some evidence on both sides. In any event, the jury were to look at the strong probabilities of the case. He had admitted the City ordinance in evidence, because in one aspect it was proper. The Court read the ordinance which prohibits the keeping of any kind of fireworks, except Chinese firecrackers, within the fire limits of the City, except between the 10th of June and the 10th of July in any year, and then only on a written permit of the Chief-Engineer of the Fire Department. The question of the negligence of deceased in not going out of the building sooner, he would also leave with the jury.

The question of damages in cases of this kind, he said, had much troubled the Courts since the passage of the act in 1847. By common law the right of action in such cases did not exist. It was purely a statutory provision. After reading the sections of the law applicable to the suit at bar to the jury, he said that in no event could they give anything but pecuniary damages, and the evidence on that point was not much. They could not go beyond the $5,000 prescribed, and they could give nothing for the grief which had been caused to the family, and nothing for suffering of any kind. No doubt it was a great sorrow to have a husband and father thus taken away, but the jury had no right to take that into account in making up their verdict.

At the conclusion of the charge the Judge directed the jury to bring in a sealed verdict at the opening of the Court this morning.

For plaintiff Mr. Hoxie and Mr. Whittaker; for defendant Mr. Phillips and Mr. Stuyvesant.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS—OCT. 10.

Before Judge Sutherland.

JURISDICTION OF THE COURT OF SPECIAL SESSIONS.

In re, Thomas Flynn to be Released on Habeas Corpus.—In this case, fully reported in the TIMES a few days since, Judge SUTHERLAND has given his decision, and remanded the prisoner Flynn to Blackwell's Island. The Court holds that though technically speaking, there is no such offence known to our law as "petit larceny by trick and device," there is evidence here that Flynn was guilty of some offence when he took $2 from the emigrant Johnson and promised to find him a position as coachman, and afterward refused to return the money, and said that he did not know anything about his victim. The doctrine that the Court of Special Sessions has no jurisdiction of such cases, because there is no provision in the law establishing it for trial by jury, the Court holds to be fallacious. In this case Flynn had in writing expressly waived a jury trial.

DEFECTIVE COMMITMENT—PRISONER DISCHARGED.

In re, Rebecca Smith.—This case came before the same Judge on a writ of habeas corpus. The prisoner was arrested, tried and convicted, and sent to Blackwell's Island for six months for disorderly conduct. The prisoner's counsel took the point that the commitment was defective in that it did not state in what respect her conduct had been disorderly. Assistant District-Attorney Blunt cited a recent opinion given by Judge Daly, of the Common Pleas, where twelve similar cases came up before him on the same ground. Judge Daly, he said, held the commitment to be good and remanded the prisoners.

Judge Sutherland said he had great respect for Judge Daly and his opinions; they were usually very learned and he went into a thing very deep, but he, Sutherland, could not agree with him on this point, and he must therefore hold the commitment defective and discharge the prisoner from custody.

Counsel for the people intimated that if this rule were to prevail half of Blackwell's Island would be set loose within forty-eight hours.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—OCT. 10.

Before Monell, J. and a Jury.

SALE BY SAMPLE.

John Priestly & Co. vs. Churchill & Ebbetts.—This action was for the recovery of the amount of a bill for paper sold by the plaintiffs to the defendants.

The plaintiffs are paper commission merchants, and also largely interested in several paper mills. The defendants are manufacturers of paper collars. The defendants wished to procure a kind of paper which would answer the purpose of being made into collars, but which should not cost as much as what is known as "paper collar paper," and which they had, theretofore, been using. The plaintiffs undertook to procure paper for the defendants to enamel for "paper collar paper," but, as they allege, at the defendants' risk—while the defendants allege that the plaintiffs warranted the paper to be "paper collar paper." The sale was made by the defendants selecting a few sheets from the large bundles at the plaintiffs' store in Maiden-lane, and then ordering the plaintiffs to send the bulk to the enamelers. The paper not answering the purpose of collar paper, after being enameled, the defendants refused to pay for it, alleging that it did not answer the warrantee. The Judge charged the jury that, if when the the defendants bought the paper they could see the whole bulk and selected what they wanted, ordering the rest to be sent, it was not in law a warrantee. If, on the other hand, the plaintiffs selected the samples for the defendants without exposing the bulk to view, it would be a warrantee. And even if the plaintiffs sold by warrantee the defendants could waive the warrantee by exercising ownership over the paper by applying to the plaintiffs to sell it for them. On this point there was some conflicting evidence. He left it for the jury to determine, under the circumstances, whether the sale was by sample, and if so, whether it was waived. The jury found for the plaintiffs the sum of $378 76, whole amount claimed.

For plaintiffs, Mr. G. M. Speir; for defendants, Mr. W. L. Flagg.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

Before Judge Ingraham.

TRIAL OF VINCENT CODY FOR THE MURDER OF JOHN R. LIVINGSTON.

The trial of Vincent Cody for the murder of Prof. John R. Livingston, in an ale-house in Jefferson-street, on the night of the 17th of April, last, was commenced yesterday morning, before Judge Ingraham, at the Court of Oyer and Terminer. Mr. Gunning S. Bedford, Jr., represented the prosecution, and Ex-Judge Stuart and H. S. Anderson cared for the interests of the prisoner.

The work of impaneling a jury occupied nearly two hours, but was at length accomplished and the case was proceeded with.

OPENING ADDRESS BY MR. BEDFORD.

Mr. Bedford in addressing the jury on behalf of the prosecution said:

MAY IT PLEASE THE COURT—GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY: The prisoner at the Bar, Vincent Cody, stands indicted for murder, being charged with having, on the night of the 18th of April last, wilfully and maliciously taken the life of John R. Livingston, by deliberately shooting him through the brain with a pistol. The circumstances surrounding this case are, indeed, well calculated to teach us a sad but truthful lesson, how little value is [illegible] placed on human life by the lawless portion of the community; and, gentlemen, the facts to which I allude are briefly these: A party of eight persons met at the ale-house No. 17 Jefferson-street, on the night of the 18th of April last, among whom were the deceased and the prisoner. Soon after entering the house they had a round of drinks, which [illegible] for; they took a second round, which, the prisoner Cody paid for. The dice-box was then called for for the purpose of throwing for a third round of drinks. When about to throw the dice the prisoner charged the deceased with cheating, the deceased immediately stepped back from the counter and walked away, evidently desiring to avoid trouble. The prisoner, on the other hand, as if intent upon a quarrel, remarked, "oh, he has got no money, let him stay out!" These repeated insults, the first calling the deceased a cheat, and then in the presence of all in the room, exclaiming "he has got no money, let him stay out," very naturally annoyed the deceased, and he observed in reply, "you are a liar." The deceased then attempted to walk away, when Allen, an associate of the prisoner, and who is also indicted for this murder, struck him a severe blow in the face, and the prisoner at the same time, struck the deceased, and [illegible] clinched him. The deceased, being overpowered by these assaults, partially fell to the ground, and thus down the prisoner and Allen continued to beat and kick him in a cowardly manner. At this juncture the proprietor interfered, and succeeded in some measure in separating Allen and Cody from the deceased. The deceased thereupon managed to release himself, and attempted to escape, and with this view he ran toward the counter; but unfortunately, in so doing, he became wedged in between the counter and the refrigerator; while thus wedged in, without arms, in one word, utterly defenceless and suffering from the injuries which had been inflicted upon him, some one cried out, "He will shoot." The deceased in reply, replied, "I have no pistol." With this assurance the prisoner, and his associate Allen, immediately advanced toward deceased, seized hold of him, pulled him from where he was wedged in on [illegible]. Allen then laid hold of him by the back of the coat with both his hands, and forced him against the wall; the prisoner then seized him by his [illegible] and holding in his right hand a loaded revolver, with bitter sarcasm exclaimed, "He will shoot, will he?" and then, with deliberate aim, fired the contents of the revolver through the brain of the unfortunate deceased, causing immediate death. Is it not, indeed, true, gentlemen, that "in the midst of life we are in death?" This is truly a fearful crime. Is it not, indeed, a melancholy thing that a human being, without any provocation, and who was most anxious to avoid all difficulty, should be swept thus suddenly from earth and sent without a moment's preparation before his Maker! I will now call my witnesses, and you shall hear their simple story of the events of that dark night. And, it will be for you, as honest men sworn to perform your duty to the prisoner, to the memory of the deceased and to the Commonwealth, to see that the scales of justice, [illegible] from the presence of all extraneous influence, [illegible] they be fairly poised, and, above all, let your verdict, whatever it may be, vindicate the majesty of the law.

THE TESTIMONY.

The following testimony was taken:

Marcius M. Tallman, sworn: I keep an ale-house at No. 17 Jefferson-street; have kept it for about [illegible] years; I recollect the night of the 17th of April last when the murder occurred; I was in my bar-room at the time; I saw Vincent Cody that night; he came in about half-past eleven o'clock; a number of persons were in his company; the deceased and three others, Marley, Sharp and Cody, came in together; a man named Allen came into the place about five minutes before they came in; when the four men came in a round of drinks was called for by Marley; after they finished the drinks and had talked awhile, Cody called for more drinks; they were served with the second round, for which Cody paid; after the second round Marley called for the dice-box; it was furnished reluctantly, because I wanted to get the parties out of the house; I did not like them; Allen threw the dice first; at that time deceased leaned upon the counter; deceased turned to walk away when they were about to commence throwing; Cody then said, "Oh, he's got no money, let him go;" when this remark was made the deceased was about [illegible] feet from Cody; deceased turned around, as if offended, and stood for a moment; Cody then asked him to take a drink, adding, "it don't matter about the money;" the remark was repeated twice or more; when the deceased returned to the counter he said, "you'll take compassion on me and [illegible] because I've got no money;" Cody then [illegible] what he had said, "Oh it don't matter, [illegible] take a drink;" then Allen threw the dice, [illegible] him Cody; after Cody had thrown, Livingston said "now I'll throw anyhow," taking the cup [illegible] the dice; I was standing immediately in front of the parties; the throw was fairly made; after the throw Allen, I think it was, accused him of fingering the dice; deceased then put the dice-box down and walked away, saying, excitedly, "Whoever fingered those dice is a liar and a ——" (applying a vulgar epithet with profanity.) Allen said, "[illegible] me;" and turning around, struck Livingston in the face with his fist; the deceased endeavored to get away, when Cody sprang for him and struck him in the face repeatedly, while Allen held him (Livingston;) the struggle continued about two minutes, probably; the deceased stooped evidently to avoid the blows, and covered his face with his hands; Allen [illegible] by the coat-collar and kicked him while Cody [illegible] him on the back, and I think bore him down; [illegible] named Hanson, just passing out of the room, said "That man will shoot;" when this remark was made Allen and Cody each said to the other, "He'll shoot, he'll shoot;" after Cody and Allen said [illegible] continued to beat deceased; at this time only the deceased, prisoner and myself were in the room; the rest had fled; deceased said, "I have no pistol;" I then endeavored to separate Allen and Livingston, taking the former by the [illegible] asking him what he meant by such [illegible] in my house; Livingston caught me by [illegible] with his right hand; I eventually succeeded in separating them; the deceased then started behind the bar, endeavoring to pass between the and an ice-box beside it and got wedged between the two; the width of the space is only six inches; one hand was on the bar and the other on the refrigerator; there was nothing in either hand; Allen then pushed by me, and both he and Cody caught hold of the deceased by the front of his coat and pulled him out, and thrust him repeatedly against a closed door which opens into the hallway; his hands dangled by his side, and he said nothing; Cody then lowered his right hand, and with his left still held deceased by the coat; Allen had hold of deceased's coat with both hands; Cody then quickly raised his right hand in which I saw a pistol, like the one now shown to me; Cody said, "He'll shoot, will he?" deceased said nothing, but leaned his head against the door; his eyes were partially closed and his hands still hanging by his side; Cody then fired the pistol, holding the weapon from eight to twelve inches from the head of deceased; the ball entered the forehead, over the right eye; deceased then dropped dead to the floor; Cody and Allen then attempted to run away, and I sought to prevent them, but they passed me and fled from the house; I then sent for the Police.

Cross-examined—I had never seen Livingston before; I usually close up my house at midnight, and on the occasion referred to the main entrance was closed; the parties entered through the basement private entrance; I was about retiring from my bar-room at the time; four lights were burning at the time of the murder; the parties seemed as if somewhat under the influence of liquor when they entered my place; I will swear that I did not see any struggle for a pistol; saw no pistol in Livingston's hands at any time; the struggle on the part of the deceased seemed to be to get away from Cody and Allen; did not hear either Allen or Cody when Livingston was endeavoring to get behind the counter, express any apprehension that he (Livingston) would shoot; I saw a morocco pistol-case taken from the pocket of deceased; it fits the pistol with which the shooting was committed.

To a juror—The words "he'll shoot the ——" were spoken in a tone of irony, and not under apparent fear.

Re-direct—From the refrigerator to the sliding doors is about three feet.

Charles S. Denike sworn: I reside at No. 181 Henry-street; was in Tallman's place on the night of the 17th of April; I went there alone; it was about eleven and a half o'clock; three other persons were there; Messrs. Bennett, Percival and Tallman; I remained there for about a half hour; Allen and Hanson I think came in soon afterward, and then Cody came in; the party called for drinks; I did not mix with them; I then heard words between Cody and deceased; did not hear what Cody said, but heard Livingston ask Cody what he meant; Allen then struck Livingston in the face; deceased then retreated to the front room, and then I, with others, tried to leave the house by the basement door, but returned soon afterward, and saw deceased lying against the door wounded, but still alive; some parties were leaving by the front door at the time; deceased lived about twenty-five minutes after this time.

Cross-examined—I was not acquainted with Livingston; I did not see Cody strike Livingston before I went down stairs; I saw no pistol before I went to the Station-house; I went for the Police, and saw Cody and Allen, and other parties, standing in front of the station-house; there were no other officers with them.

Jas. C. Hanson, sworn: I reside at No. 31 Canal-street; was at Mr. Tallman's alehouse on the night of the murder; it was about five minutes after twelve; went there with Allen and entered the basement; Cody entered about five or ten minutes afterward; he came in with Livingston, Sharp and Marley; some one asked us to take a drink, and we all did so; we drank several times, when Marley called for the dice; all threw for drinks; after the dice-box was furnished the party consisted of Allen, Livingston, Sharp, Marley, Cody and myself; during the throwing of the dice I understood Cody to accuse Livingston of fingering them; deceased stepped back a few feet and said, "You ——," (calling him by a vile name with profanity;) after that I said to Morley, "We had better leave, there'll be a row here;" we went out, and on the way down the stairs I said to Morley, "Livingston will shoot," or "he'll shoot;" I returned to Tallman's in about three minutes afterward; I then saw Livingston lying behind the door; think he was dead; I have seen a pistol like the one shown now often in deceased's possession.

Q.—By Mr. Stuart—What led you to make the remark, "He'll shoot."

Objected to and withdrawn.

ASSAULTING A WITNESS.

Last Saturday Julia Costello, a young girl, was witness in a case in which the defendant was found guilty of an indecent assault upon a little girl. Morris Sullivan, the father of the prisoner, met Julia going out of Court and in revenge for the testimony she gave against his son, he beat her with a stick. He was arrested, committed, and yesterday tried for the offence. In sentencing him the Court said that if it were not for his extreme age he would be sent to the Penitentiary for six months, but taking his years into consideration the milder penalty of one month's imprisonment would be inflicted.

DISORDERLY HOUSE.

Mary Lynch, found guilty of keeping a disorderly house at No. 148 Hester-street, was fined $25.

THURSDAY, Oct. 10—P. M.

Part of yesterday's decline of 2 ℘ cent. in Gold was reversed to-day, owing in part to exaggerated rumors in regard to the amount of the 7.30 ℘ cent. forgeries on the Treasury. The sales were at 143¼@½@¾ ℘ cent. closing 143¾, as against 143¼ last night. The Foreign Exchanges indicate no early resumption of the export demand for Gold. Bills on London of the highest credit are abundant at 109¼@109½ ℘ cent.

The discovery at Washington yesterday of the forgeries of the Second Series, June 15, 1865, of the 7.30 ℘ cent. Notes, and the fact that about $130,000 of these Notes had reached the Department from New-York, caused some excitement among the great dealers in the Public Funds and other holders of this series of the 7.30 Notes. The effect was to arrest further purchases at the Treasury Office in this City, and to reduce the bids for the Notes with the great dealers ½@¾ ℘ cent. The counterfeits thus far traced were mostly, if not altogether, received from the West about two weeks ago, and the fraud, if not originating in that quarter, was probably consummated by the sale of the counterfeits to Western bankers and brokers. There is no present means of judging of the extent of their circulation. The affair will doubtless set the holders generally of the 7.30s of this series to examining and confirming the genuineness of their own Notes, and some of them may possibly rush to sell or convert them to the great dealers. The Gold bearing Stocks were not strong to-day, though prices yielded only ⅛@¼ ℘ cent. from yesterday's sales. There is much less speculation in round sums of the 5-20s going on this month than in August and September; while at the same time there is a larger business doing at the Stock Exchange in the Railways; the latter being less affected by a 7 ℘ cent. Money market, while their Fall traffic is on the increase.

There is a decided steadiness this week in the movement of Money. The Brokers are readily supplied at 7 per cent. on stock collateral, and there is some currency for prime short paper at 7@9 per cent.

The business in the Railways was not so active as on Tuesday and Wednesday, and prices opened lower and were irregular through the several Boards of the day. The fluctuations in Erie were 69@68¾@69⅛@68⅞ per cent. New-York Central was ¼@⅜ per cent. lower than yesterday and most of the Western Roads 1@1½ per cent. lower. The State Bonds were firmer, and the miscellaneous shares higher for the old Express Companies and lower for Western Telegraph. The general market in the Afternoon was unsettled in the tone of dealings and the Railways chiefly influenced by the irregular movement in Erie.

At 5 o'clock P. M. the following quotations were made as compared with Wednesday night:

And the following for the Railway Mortgages. A very singular sale and purchase, (and a subsequent conversion into stock,) of the original mortgage Bonds of the old Fond du Lac section of the present Chicago and Northwest Road. The Bonds had been held for about seven years to the amount of $300,000 by a man apparently in poor circumstances, but really no doubt a miser, until nearly 50 ℘ cent. of the principal in unpaid coupons had accumulated. The Fond du Lac Road seven years ago was in embarrassed circumstances, and this caused the Bonds to rule very cheap in the market and the postponement of the coupons; but they were included upon certain terms in the general consolidation of the Northwest Company three or four years ago, and this parcel of $300,000 is brought forward for the first time, the holder receiving from the purchaser a certified check for the agreed value of the Bonds.

The Mendota Mining Company of Lake Superior, JOHN HOWARD WAINWRIGHT, of the New-York Stock Exchange, President, are in the market to sell $125,000 of their first and only mortgage, bearing 7 ℘ cent., free of Government tax, in Bonds of $500 each. The Bonds carry not only a lien upon the whole mining estate of the Company, but the indorsement of the Lac La Belle Harbor Improvement Company, to whom Congress recently made a grant of 100,000 acres of Land. The security appears to be ample beyond reasonable question, and the Bonds are offered by Mr. WAINWRIGHT at 80 cents on the dollar. His advertisement has already been published on another page of the TIMES.

The following letter from the Secretary of the Treasury is published in the (German) New-York Handels Zeitung of this City:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Oct. 7, 1867.

DEAR SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of the 3d inst., with inclosures, and to thank you for the same.

I do not know what measures it would be possible or expedient for the Government to institute, to prevent or to punish the attacks, which are systematically made upon its credit both at home and abroad. I have taken it for granted that the resources of the United States and the determination of the people to maintain inviolably both the expressed and implied faith of the Government, are so well understood, as to render such attacks harmless. I have not, therefore, been much troubled about them, and I trust that the holders of our securities in Europe will not be. Very truly yours, HUGH McCULLOCH.

M. MAYER, ESQ., New-York Handels Zeitung, N. Y.

Cheese is in better demand at 8c.@17c., as extremes, ℘ lb. The week's business in Butter and Cheese Messrs. STARIN & FLOYD review thus: The total receipts of Butter for the week ending this day are 9,930 pkgs., nearly the whole of which is drawn from our State stock, as it is now an established fact that the Western States have not made their usual crop, and, on account of a long-continued drouth, are now without a sufficient supply for their own consumption. This places the make of this State on a solid foundation for fair prices, but will not guarantee or sustain speculative or exorbitant rates. Consumption is already diminished by the advance in price, and much higher rates will so reduce the local requirements that an acknowledged short make may prove to be a very considerable overplus. The advance in the price of Butter has also caused large numbers of dairymen who have sent their milk to the Cheese factories during the early part of the season to turn their attention to the manufacture of Fall Butter, which will largely increase the yield of Butter, and correspondingly decrease the make of Cheese. Orange County pails have been advanced to 50c. for selections, but this trade has dwindled down to an insignificant amount and pails will soon be out of market. The market closes with activity at our quotations, except for Western, which is nominal in the absence of stock.

A fair demand has prevailed for Cheese during the week, both in factories and farm dairies, for local Eastern and Southern trade. Exporters have generally been out of market, and it is generally understood that another combined effort was to be made to press down market quotations here, in order to enable that interest to again sweep the country of stock, which has already been successfully accomplished on two different occasions this season. The Atlantic Cable reports are again brought in requisition to depress rates, but its effect is lost in the memory of its utter unreliability on previous occasions; besides, the small comparative stock now left in this country renders the market perfectly firm, and not easily shaken by scheming reports. We note the export of Cheese from this port to Liverpool and London during the three past seasons, commencing with the advent of each crop on May 1, as follows:

From May 1 to Oct. 1, 1865	448,734 boxes, of 50 lbs. each
From May 1 to Oct. 1, 1866	[illegible] boxes, of 50 lbs. each
From May 1 to Oct. 1, 1867	632,371 boxes, of 50 lbs. each

This immense export of Cheese to England has been placed at prices accessible to all, and has gone directly into consumption; and notwithstanding the great increase in the make of this country, there is probably at this time less stock of Cheese in this country and England than at the same period of last year, and as the local consumption of this country has been increasing in about the same ratio as the export demand, the probabilities are that no lower rates will be current for this present crop, whose manufacture will soon be terminated by the approaching cold weather. The total receipts of Cheese for the week ending this day are 31,825 boxes. The market closes firmly at our quotations but without animation. We quote:

Factory Dairies, fancy and Cheddar shapes, ℘ lb.	16¼@17
Factory Dairies, fine quality, ℘ lb.	15½@16

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

Another encounter occurred Wednesday between the Papal forces and the Garabaldians. The latter, it is averred, were defeated, but no really reliable accounts of the engagement have been received. The party of action assert that a general uprising will shortly take place in the Eternal City.

The excitement caused by the reports of Fenian movements in the North of England, is unabated, and the British Goqernment continues taking precautionary measures. Orders have been issued from the Home Office that all armories belonging to the volunteer forces be guarded and placed in a condition of defence. It is generally believed that the Government will call Parliament together on the 19th of November.

The degree of Doctor of Laws has been conferred by the Cambridge University upon all the American Bishops now attending the Pan-Anglican Synod.

The second day of the Newmarket races, October meeting, occurred Wednesday. The race for the sweepstakes was won by Victrix, the contest for the Oaklands stakes by Viridis, and the race for the Middle Park stakes by Greensleeve.

The municipal Government of Vienna have presented a petition to the Emperor praying for a revision of the Concordat.

The competition between the English and the American safe manufacturers has resulted in the success of the latter. The jury, on Wednesday, declared Silas C. Herring, of New-York, the winner of the wager which was made with the Chatwoods, of England.

GENERAL.

Our Havana correspondence is dated Oct. 5, and our St. Domingo letter Sept. 17. The news from Cuba is unimportant. Advices from St. Domingo report the issue of paper money to the amount of $130,000, in accordance with the law recently passed by the Dominican Congress. President Cabal has issued a decree authorizing the construction of a railroad from the mouth of the River Ozama to Cuago Medina, in the section of St. Christobal. The contractor is M. Felix Montecatine, an enterprising French engineer. The publication of some correspondence has thrown important light upon the conditions under which foreigners and foreign companies are permitted to work the mines in Santo Domingo. The old decree requiring foreigners to become naturalized one year, at least, after their arrival in the country, has been annulled, and they are now free to work in the mines without being naturalized.

The New-Jersey State Fair is now being held on the fair grounds near Newark. The grounds are beautifully and conveniently laid out, but only a portion of the buildings are yet completed. Tents, however, form an acceptable substitute, and the various articles on exhibition are very conveniently arranged. The exhibition is very fine, embracing a great variety of agricultural and mechanical implements, fruits, flowers, vegetables, horses, cattle, sheep, &c. A trial of speed between fast horses constituted a portion of the programme. The prizes to be awarded make quite a formidable list. The Fair has thus far been a great success.

On Wednesday night some burglars broke into the State Prison at Wethersfield, Conn., and stole several hundred dollars worth of silver ware from the burnishing room. They broke through a gate in the rear of the prison, loaded the goods on a wheelbarrow which they took from one of the workshops, and escaped with their booty. The property belonged to contractors of prison labor.

Gens. Sheridan and Sickles had a public reception accorded them in Albany yesterday. A procession composed of the militia and many citizens was formed and marched through the principal streets. Many of the stores and dwellings were gaily decorated with flags and mottoes.

The fines and costs paid by liquor-sellers in Massachusetts, prosecuted by the State Constables, from Jan. 1, to Oct. 1, amounted to about $200,000, and the expense of maintaining that force to less than $90,000.

The Vermont General Assembly convened yesterday. Both houses elected officers and organized for the transaction of business.

LOCAL.

The trial of Vincent Cody, who is charged with having murdered Prof. John R. Livingston, in an ale house in Jefferson-street, at about midnight of the 17th of April last, was commenced yesterday morning before Judge Ingraham at the Court of Oyer and Terminer. Five witnesses were examined for the prosecution. Marcus M. Tallman, proprietor of the saloon in which the tragedy occurred, swore that after a quarrel and a struggle between the deceased on the one hand, and the prisoner and a man named Allen on the other, Cody raised the pistol deliberately and discharged one of the bullets into Livingston's head, causing almost instantaneous death. Chas. S. Denike and James C. Hanson testified as to the quarrel between the parties, at the commencement of which they left the house, and returning shortly afterward, found Livingston dead upon the floor of the bar-room. Sergt. Babcock and Roundsman E. P. Whitcomb, of the Seventh Precinct, testified to the finding of an empty pistol-case in the outside pocket of Livingston's overcoat which he wore; the pistol found upon Cody fitted the case, and the prisoner explained that the shooting was accidental. The prosecution rested, and the defence will be opened this morning.

Much excitement was caused in Wall-street yesterday by the announcement that the seven-thirty bonds had been largely counterfeited. The discovery was made in Washington by the chief clerk of the Treasury Department, and Mr. Clark, Government Printer, arrived here yesterday morning with a detective, who has been endeavoring to ascertain the amount issued, and the hands through which the fraudulent notes have passed. Thus far he has discovered $160,000 worth, and has notified a number of banks and banking houses that they either now hold or have recently passed them.

The compositors of the Brooklyn Eagle, the Brooklyn Union and of the Williamburg Times "struck" yesterday for 40 cents per 1,000 ems, instead of 37 cents received heretofore. In consequence the editors and proprietors of the Eagle were compelled to go to work at the case. All the papers were published as usual, notwithstanding the strike.

There were two trotting contests at the Fashion Course, L. I., yesterday. The match between Gen. Butler and Mountain Maid resulted in the victory of the former in three mile heats. Time—2:28, 2:27 and 2:29¼. Mr. J. S. Watson's Brother to Bruno won the Long Island Stakes for three-year old colts in two mile heats. Time—2:52¼, 2:52¼.

The Board of Aldermen yesterday adopted a resolution rescinding a former resolution repealing the License Ordinance.

The Board of Councilmen yesterday rescinded the resolution granting the Directors of the Park Bank permission to erect a portico to their building in Broadway. A resolution instructing the Committee on Public Buildings to report an ordinance regulating the storage of petroleum and distillation of whisky was referred.

At the monthly meeting of the Union League Club, last evening, resolutions were offered by Dr. Francis Lieber in honor of the late Dr. Charles King, and a bronze group by M. Falconnier, a French artist, in memory of President Lincoln, was exhibited. Resolutions of respect for the late Chas. G. Loring, of Boston, were also adopted.

Crispino Cardena, the alleged wife murderer, and Philip Monahan, indicted for manslaughter, were yesterday arraigned at Oyer and Terminer, when each pleaded not guilty, and was remanded for trial at the November Term of the Court of Special Sessions.

The examination of James Arnold, formerly second teller of the Tradesmen's Bank, charged with embezzling funds of that institution, was commenced before Commissioner Osborne yesterday. The chief witness examined was Mr. Richard Berry, President of the bank.

At the Court of Special Sessions yesterday, the calendar was brief, and there were but few cases of interest. There were 9 charges of petit larceny, 14 of assault and battery, 3 of cruelty to animals, 1 of disorderly housekeeping, and 6 of violation of the Health Laws—33 in all.

Performances connected with the celebration of the annual festival of the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum took place yesterday morning and evening at the Academy of Music.

Business in produce and merchandise was less active yesterday. Breadstuffs, pork and cotton were lower. The freight engagements were less extensive, but rates were firmer.

The receipts of live stock at the cattle yards continue to be larger than the requirements of an active market. The prices of beef cattle remain unchanged, and moderately firm. In some instances there seemed to be, on the 9th and 10th, a trifling advance in the sales of beef cattle. Fair to good bullocks sell readily at last week's rates. Inferior beef cattle, of which there is a bountiful supply, sell slowly. The market yesterday was better in one respect than it was one week ago, namely, second and third rate cattle were sold for as much ꝑ lb. as a better quality brought last week. No extra fed cattle were in the yards on the 9th and 10th. The top of the market is about 16c. ꝑ lb., net weight. Most of the sales are made at about 13c.@15c. ꝑ lb., net weight. The largest proportion of beef cattle are thin and poor. Sheep are heavy. Very few are worth over 4c.@4½c. ꝑ lb., live weight. Most of the sales are made at 3c.@5c. ꝑ lb., live weight. Large numbers of sheep are too poor to be slaughtered, except for dog-meat. Transactions in swine are lively, at 7c.@7¾c. ꝑ lb., live weight. The receipts are large, with more poor swine than the market can use up profitably. Some poor lots were sold for 5c.@6c. ꝑ lb. Prime dressed hogs were sold at 9½c.@9¾c. ꝑ lb.

Teachings of the Elections.

The Tribune, in common with other Republican journals, discusses the causes and consequences of the reverses which that party has sustained in the late elections. It is very confident that defeat now will lead quite certainly to a future triumph. We hope and believe that this will prove true, though we do not quite see the force of the logic by which the Tribune reaches that conclusion. It is generally conceded that the party has been weakened by a loss of votes; but the Tribune prescribes still further depletion as the cure required. "There are still some persons in the Republican camp," says the Tribune, "whose hearts are with the adverse host, and who, we trust, will now be tempted to let their bodies follow." That is precisely the class of men who are most likely to go over to the "adverse host," now that it has proved victorious; but how their departure will increase the Republican vote, we do not quite see.

There is one point made by the Tribune, however, which is just and timely. In speaking of the election in Pennsylvania, it says:

> "But it was supposed that any thing would be elected that could get on the Republican ticket; so nominations were made that the people would not support; while the Democrats, having little hope of success, nominated three soldiers who had a good war record for the best offices, and so gained thousands of votes. We trust the lesson will not be lost on those who control nominations in our State. We can tell them that the legislative jobbers and railroad robbers who are "fixing things" in several districts to nominate themselves to our next Legislature may buy ever so many delegates, but cannot buy the people. Mr. Jacob Sharp, for example, will waste his money if he uses it to achieve a Republican nomination."

It is not only in this City but elsewhere in the State that Republican managers are making the same mistake; they suppose that "any thing will be elected that can get on the Republican ticket," and under this impression several nominations have been already made that will cost the State ticket a good many votes if they are persisted in. The renomination of Senator Williams in the Cayuga District, in the face of his notorious Legislative career, and that of Matt P. Bemis for the Assembly in Chautauque,—both in face of the resolution on corruption adopted at Syracuse,—are outrages on the party, and can end only in disaster.

Speaking of the last-named nomination, the Commercial Advertiser says:

> "Are the Republican electors of Chautauque so fallen that they desire to be represented in the Legislature by a man who was for a long time hiding in Canada to avoid the service of process upon a charge of Legislative corruption?
> Bemis claims to be the especial friend of Gov. Fenton, in whose name he negotiates for the Governor's autograph to bills, and for whom, as he claimed, he obtained money last Winter at Albany from the Central Railroad. We do not say that this was done for Gov. Fenton, or with his knowledge. Bemis either told the truth or obtained money under false pretences. This, at any rate, is the time to test the question. If true, then it is easy to see why the Governor wants Bemis in the Legislature. If false, decent considerations of self-respect will induce him to veto that nomination."

These statements are very explicit, and, unless refuted, they ought to be conclusive. Gov. Fenton cannot afford to be represented in the Legislature by a man of whom these things can be said, nor can the Republican Party afford to put and keep such men in power.

The Public Debt and the Burdens of Taxation.

The Republican Party has hitherto concerned itself mainly with the political reconstruction of the Southern States, and has given but little attention to other subjects. To this cause very likely the reverses it has sustained in the late elections may be partly due. For, although that question is one of deep interest to the whole country, there are others quite as important, and which come more closely home to the business and bosoms of the great mass of the people.

The taxation of the country is beginning to be a subject of the gravest importance, and of the deepest interest to all classes of the people. It comes home to everybody's hearthstone. It affects more directly and more seriously the daily comfort of every man, woman and child in the land, than any and all political questions put together. Taxation now falls with heavier weight upon us than upon any other people in the world. Our debt may not be larger, but the rate of interest which it pays is greater, than in England, France, Austria or any of the nations of Europe which we have hitherto regarded as crushed to the earth by the taxes imposed upon the masses of their people. With a smaller population and less wealth than either of them, we have to sustain burdens and endure taxation quite equal to theirs.

Our people are beginning to feel this burden, and they will feel it more and more every year. During the war and for the first year or two after its close, while business in every department still felt the stimulating effect of it,—while commerce, manufactures and agriculture were alike pushed to their utmost activity to supply the losses and repair the damages of the contest,—it was comparatively easy to pay the taxes, no matter how heavy they might be, nor upon what they might fall. But that state of things has passed away. Industry is on the whole very greatly depressed. The demand for labor has not increased. Taxation has raised the price of every article of consumption. Rents, not only in the great cities but everywhere else, are so enormously high that to live in comfort and with a reasonable amount of space is, for men in moderate circumstances and with families, simply impossible. The reaction, inevitable in all such cases, against the abounding wealth and lavish luxury of a year ago, has set in with great severity, and not one man in ten now makes half the money he did two or three years since. And while a few have been growing rich faster than ever, and the number of those who are very poor has increased in a still greater ratio, the condition of the great body of those in the middle class—neither very rich nor very poor—has been, and still is, growing worse and worse day by day. The great mass of our people not only are poorer, but, what is still more important, they feel a great deal poorer, this year than they did last. And the burdens of taxation thus grow heavier, and the people bear them less easily and less willingly, with every successive year.

It will not do for any party to neglect or tamper with such an interest as this too long. It will force itself upon public attention in spite of parties; and it demands careful and prudent, as well as prompt and effective treatment. The quacks and demagogues of the day, who are naturally the first to seize upon it, need not hope to satisfy the public with their nostrums, or to delude the people into adopting their dishonest and degrading schemes. Neither Butler on the one hand, nor Pendleton on the other, will succeed in winning public favor for their ingenious projects of repudiation. The people do not want to escape the payment of the debt, nor the taxation required to carry it along; they only ask that its payment shall be made as easy as possible, and that the taxation demanded to meet its interest shall be so adjusted, as not to crush the industry and exhaust the resources out of which alone it can be raised.

It seems to be assumed by some that the whole of the national debt must be paid by the generation which incurred it, and that we must not only pay the interest now, year by year, as it falls due, but pay also a tenth or a twentieth of the principal, so that the next generation may feel nothing of its burden. Nothing could be more absurd in theory, or more disastrous in practice. Why should the coming generations be wholly relieved from payment of the debt, incurred in defence of the integrity of the Union—the existence of the nation? Are they to share none of the advantages it has secured—none of the blessings it has bought? Unless the legitimate results of the war are thrown away by party ambition or political quackery, coming generations will share in these blessings far more richly than we can do. The present generation gave generously of its blood, and took upon itself all the dreadful sufferings to families, neighborhoods and States, which such a war involves; is it too much to ask that those who are to come after them should pay at least part of the debts incurred so largely on their behalf? In strict justice, those who fought the war should be released entirely from paying the debt which it cost. Exhausted as the country is by the tremendous struggle, checked and depressed for the moment as are all its industries and sources of wealth, they should have time to recover and regain their strength, before they are called upon to bear this additional and tremendous strain. It is all which the present generation should be required to do, to sustain the Government and meet, as it falls due, the interest on the national debt. Nothing more should be exacted, unless it can be done without making the weight of taxation seriously felt by any of the interests on which it falls.

And another necessity quite as imperative upon the party in possession of power, is a more equitable distribution of taxation among the industries that are forced to bear it. The experience of the world, as well as common sense, shows that the number of articles taxed should be as small as possible; and that taxation should affect as lightly as possible the earnings and the living of the great body of the people. Tax laws, moreover, when properly framed, must be fairly enforced, so that no one branch of labor or of profit shall throw its burden upon others. And while we can hardly expect that Congress, at its coming session, will find time or inclination for any very thorough and complete revision of the whole system of taxation, there are one or two things which it must do, or else incur the brand of complicity with the most flagrant wrongs, or of incapacity to deal with a notorious and flagrant evil. The whisky tax must be collected,—and the law must be so amended as to make its collection possible and certain. The wrong does not lie wholly in the fact that this one class of men escape taxation,—but in the further fact that other classes are saddled with the taxes which they evade. Every dollar of taxation which the whisky dealer escapes paying, falls upon the men engaged in other branches of industry. The burdens of taxation are thus unequally distributed; and men are taxed just in proportion as they are honest and deal fairly with the Government. And what is true of the whisky tax is true, perhaps to a less extent, of the tax upon other products and other branches of industry. Those which ought to pay the most, really pay the least.

The Republican Party will do well to give this subject prompt attention. It has control of Congress, and is thus responsible for legislation upon it. It is the subject upon which they will be most vehemently assailed—the one upon which the Democrats are already showering their heaviest and most telling blows. It is a practical subject, and comes home most closely to the interest and feelings of every man, who has an opinion to utter or a vote to cast. It cannot be overborne by any clamor against Executive treachery, by demands for impeachment or struggles to establish negro rights. It must not be put aside or overlooked for any or for all of these. While action upon them should be effective and judicious, upon this it must be prompt and prudent. The public burdens must be made as light as possible,—not by repudiation nor any other dishonest resort, but by economy in expenditure, a postponement in the payment of the debt, and an equitable distribution of the taxation which the necessities of the country demand.

The County Court-house—Extravagance and Plunder.

It may be doubted whether the Tribune's mode of avenging the tax-payers of the City and County for the enormous outlay on the Court-house will commend itself to any considerable portion of the community. The method proposed is radical, and it is consequently simple. Three and a half odd millions have been appropriated toward a building which was to cost less than a quarter of a million. The building is well advanced to completion. But inasmuch as we have expended an amount so far in excess of the original appropriation, the Tribune says we ought to expend no more. The building should be allowed to stand in its incomplete condition as a monument of the extravagance and corruption of the Board of Supervisors. That would be well enough if the tax-payers of the City and county were to gain anything or save anything by the operation. It is a natural enough and simple enough way of viewing the case—it is entirely natural to those who do not hold themselves uniformly amenable to reason. The Board of Supervisors is a creation of the tax-payers themselves. It is not a gift from Heaven at all, nor, peradventure, from the other place. We made a bad bargain, no doubt, when we created it, and employed it to do a large part of our economic task. It is none the less our own agent. And we cannot rectify its errors, or commute for its extravagances by mere spite. The sooner it can be done away with the better for everybody who owns a house or who rents a house.

The Court-house can be of no possible use to any one till it is finished. When it is finished there will be some return for the outrageous sums voted every other month by the Supervisors to complete the columns, and beat it up afterward for judicial uses.

It appears, according to Mr. Cooper's estimate—made on behalf of the Citizens' Association—that the City is now involved to the tune of $4,378,835 for a concern that was originally estimated at about two or three per cent. of that amount. The original estimate, one would think, must have been as ridiculously small as the gradually accumulating appropriations were outrageously extravagant. We could have got along as well with the old buildings used as Court-houses as we could get on with a new building that could be thrown together for $150,000. If there was any necessity for new accommodation at all, an honest estimate could never have run down to so low a figure as the first estimate of the Court-house. The real trouble with us has been that we have had no gauge by which we could measure our outlays for public improvements. Except in the case of the Central Park Commission, everything has gone on in a hap-hazard way. If those who are now working earnestly to bring about economic reforms had taken the same interest in the government of the City ten years ago as they appear to do now, these Court-house and many other jobs of their kind never could have been initiated. The men who now show their faces as City Reformers were silent too long. They were above taking an active part in City politics. They left the business in the hands of rum-sellers and the lowest class of Ward politicians; and this is the pass we are brought to. We shall gradually get back to a healthier condition, but not in the way the Tribune suggests,—by leaving public buildings without a roof to them, and declaring in favor of a general suspension of work on buildings the contract price of which may seem excessive.

Religious Sects in England.

We learn from a return recently made by the Registrar-General for England that no less than ninety-two different religious denominations exist in that country—all, we assume from the fact of their having come under official cognisance, possessing places of worship, or whatever may happen to pass current with them for it. A Frenchman once described the English as a people with "fifty religions and but one sauce"—melted butter. Since his day the English have gone ahead in both departments. The religions have nearly doubled, while the sauces have multiplied to an extent far more commensurate with such "an intolerable quantity" of creeds. Some of the names under which these sects are registered are worthy of notice. The "Apostolics" lead off, by virtue of their place in the alphabet, as well as their modest assumption of primitive orthodoxy, though the "Church of Christ" and the "Followers of the Lord Jesus" are not far behind in the latter respect. The "Christian Teetotalers" would seem to lack Christian charity by the reflections on the Christianity of abstainers in general, which their title implies. The members of one sect call themselves "Peculiar People," and so far at least we are quite disposed to agree with them. Surely, however, the Registrar-General has not been hoaxed into attributing special religious tenets to that respectable benefit society known as the Ancient Order of Odd Fellows. Then there are the "Progressionists," who, probably, take their doctrine in a social form. The "Recreative Religionists" are alliterative and vague. They are perhaps an offshoot from the great school of muscular Christianity which Tom Brown, at Oxford, planted and Mr. Charles Kingsley watered. "Walking and leaping and praising God" would probably be one of their favorite passages of Scripture. One body seems to think the thirty-nine articles of the Anglican Church are issued in fractional currency, for they register themselves as accepting "articles one to eighteen inclusive," but reject the remainder. It is a pity that Mr. Hepworth Dixon does not devote his powers of accurate religious analysis to the study of some of the creeds of old England as well as those of new America. Further information as to the creed and cultus of such a body as the "Hallelujah Band" would be acceptable on both sides of the Atlantic. The result of his inquiries might be of value to the Pan-Anglican Synod, which might consider whether the scandal to English orthodoxy might not be lessened by the consolidation of some of the schismatical sects. By the way, it is to be hoped that the Synodic mania will not run through the whole ninety-two. A Pan-Ranting Synod would be a terrible affair for the inhabitants of its locale, while a general Council of Peculiar People might cause considerable anxiety to the local Police. A rehearsal by the Hallelujah Band would depend a good deal on the tone of the meeting.

MINOR TOPICS.

Mr. Wendell Phillips makes no attempt to conceal his chagrin at the result of the late elections,—especially in Ohio, where the amendment giving suffrage to the negro has been rejected by 50,000 majority. He is right in regarding these results as a special defeat of the matters which he deems of special importance. He never thought the preservation of the Union half as important as the admission of the negro to power. He always favored removing the President from office by force, as the only way of carrying out his own political programme. He always scouted the Constitution as of no consequence in the crusade he was carrying on, and he always opposed the restoration of the Union except upon the principles which he deemed essential. The people of Ohio and of Pennsylvania have failed to respond to his demands. It is emphatically his principles, and not the principles of the Republican Party, which have been repudiated. Perhaps, if the controlling section of that party will now follow the lead of wiser and less intemperate men, they may get out of the slough into which he has led them. His remedy for the evil is still impeachment, deposition and incessant agitation.

The Liberté is quoted as authority for the statement that a street railroad is to be laid along the Boulevards in Paris. We doubt it. The Parisians are too proud and too fond of their magnificent promenade, the finest by far in the world, to allow it to be thus occupied. But whenever street railroads are laid down in Paris we may rest assured they will be managed with some regard to the comfort and health of those who ride on them, as well as the rights of those who use carriages. Passengers will not be forced to hang to pendent straps. In Paris when one pays for a thing he is considered to be entitled to it—seats in omnibuses and cars not excepted.

The Boston Transcript has discovered that the Republican Party, though strong when confined to the legitimate purposes of its organization, is "not strong enough to carry every ism that unbalanced minds may consider essential for the good of the country." This is doubtless true, but it suggests some nice distinctions. What "minds" are "unbalanced" and what not? How about Mr. Sumner's, for example, and Ben. Wade's? and how much ground does the word "ism" cover? May universal negro suffrage, which has been deemed sufficiently essential to justify forcing it on the South by the bayonet fairly come under that head? Ohio seems to think so.

We wish the same attention could be given to the question of sewage and drainage on this side of the Atlantic as is given on the other. In England the whole subject of town sewage is likely to be revolutionized by a late legal decree which awarded damages for discharging the sewage matter of Leamington into the Leam, and sequestrated the municipal funds in satisfaction of the claim. The great error prevailing in most cities and towns is to regard sewage matter of all kinds as a source of annoyance, instead of a source of wealth—as something to be got rid of at all events, even by hurting one's neighbor, instead of something to be utilized to the good of all. Whoever, therefore, both for the information of corporate bodies and private persons, would make known the part that sewage matter has played and can be made to play in the reproductive capacity of the earth would be a public benefactor. According to our present sewage system, for example, ammonia, so invaluable to agriculture, is usually not fixed and retained for use, but is lost in the air. The aid of chemistry must be called in to avoid this result. We need not, however, enter into details, but will suggest that it is a subject worthy of general study. Enough now to say that the sewage and drainage of New-York City alone would turn all Long Island—now more than half given over to sterility, though within a few miles of a great market—into a vast vegetable garden, as fertile and blooming as the State of New-Jersey.

A Western paper, in alluding to Fernando Wood being again in the field for the Mayoralty, styles him "the Santa Anna of the New-York Democracy." The analogy is good in some respects, though we do not care about making any comparison between the life and career of the two adventurers. The Mexicans, more summary than the Americans in their treatment of anarchists, have now, however, reduced Santa Anna to a condition that ought to be a warning to Fernando Wood.

The Philadelphia Inquirer is remarkably ignorant of the history and career of "poor Carlotta." It alludes to her as belonging to a class of ladies "who have come rapidly and unexpectedly to rank, who have not always been either ornaments nor aids to their lords;" and speaks of her as having "not only embittered the Imperial Party in Mexico against Maximilian, but by her lavishness made his short reign a splendid profligacy and herself broken-hearted." We are amazed to meet such statements. The Princess Carlotta was born the daughter of a King, was one of the most accomplished ladies of Europe, was the noblest ornament to her lord, and aided him with all the powers of her bright genius. Instead of making her husband's unhappy reign in Mexico a "splendid profligacy" by her lavishness, she constituted a Court there which was a model of simplicity and domestic virtue, and devoted a great part of her time to the most beneficent labors of charity and piety. Because we may have been opposed to the Mexican Empire, it is not necessary to misrepresent the unfortunate lady who lost her reason and her husband in the enterprise to which she gave up her heart.

In view of the approach of the cold season, in which conflagrations in the City are most numerous, the Chief-Engineer of the Fire Department has issued a circular of instructions to the companies. Among other things he reminds the firemen that five minutes' energetic service when a fire first breaks out is worth fifty minutes half an hour later. This is not novel information, but it is very valuable; and it is worth while for the public to bear it in mind as well as the firemen.

There is no necessity for our Pennsylvania Republican friends being so dumbfounded as they seem to be with the result of Tuesday's election. It does not show that the cause is lost, or the country ruined, or the party destroyed, or the rebellion triumphant; nor does it indicate a popular indorsement of what the Philadelphia Press calls the "persistent and hellish purposes of Andrew Johnson." And even though the same paper excitedly declares that the "defeat is overwhelming—that we have fallen off in every ward in Philadelphia," &c., &c., we do not see that this justifies its analogy between the present overthrow and that of Bull Run. Even if it did so there is no occasion for despair. We have been told by one of the most prominent rebel commanders at Bull Run that the rebel forces were quite as badly demoralized there as the Union forces; and that if we had only known and taken advantage of the situation soon after, we could easily have retrieved our misfortunes. We believe that all that is required to enable the Pennsylvania Republicans to retrieve speedily their position is a reasonable measure of political common sense, and a sufficient amount of generalship to take advantage of the intrinsic weakness of the temporarily successful Democratic cohorts. It seems ridiculous in this part of the field to hear them talking as they do.

The Republicans of Ohio are greatly disappointed at the defeat of Richard Smith for Congress in the Cincinnati District. Mr. Smith is editor of the Cincinnati Gazette, and is a gentleman of large ability, which he displays in his treatment of political and financial questions. He has not much to regret personally in the circumstance of his defeat, for the position which he holds as editor of one of the most powerful journals in the West is quite as honorable and influential, and, we have no doubt, far more profitable than a seat in Congress would have been. His successful opponent, S. F. Cary, who ran as an Independent candidate, was formerly known throughout the country as a prominent temperance lecturer and organizer.

AMUSEMENTS.

Steinway Hall—Mr. Harrison's Third Concert.

The third of Mr. Harrison's concerts for the season was given last evening at this extensive hall. It seemed to be filled to its utmost; but if there is one impression more than another conveyed by the immense bareness of Steinway's it is, that no matter how crowded the place is, there always appears to be room for a few more people. The programme last night included two fantasie, a "Nocturne," and "Themes from Meyerbeer," by M. Leopold De Meyer; Artol's fantasie for the violin on the Russian National Hymn, and a Motive from Paganini, by Carl Rosa; three numbers for Mrs. Jenny Kempton; a song and an aria for Sig. Randolfi, and the usual number of orchestral pieces by Mr. Theodore Thomas' melodious band,—the most attractive of them being Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's" overture, and the finale to the third act of "Don Carlos," which was nothing if not Verdian.

The performances of M. de Meyer were of course the particular charm of the evening, and may have that credit without any slight being meant for the rest. They were rewarded by the most tumultuous applause we have heard anywhere this season.

It is not alone the skill of the pianist, it is the geniality of the man which called this forth. Every one is captivated by the arch look of the old musician, and the beaming humor of his countenance. As he enters upon the platform, hat in hand, his kindly face and silvery hair lit up with a glow of friendship and pleasure, the pulses of the most blasé spectator are started, and even the stolid musicians about him drop their bows to applaud. He acknowledges the tempest of hands with a look that seems to say: "We are the oldest and best of friends—you and I." He takes off his gloves, puts them in his hat, sits down and runs his fingers over the keys as if the immense gathering before him was a little party of old acquaintances whom he was going to delight, unasked, by his skill. Now he dashes into the melody, and the very keys of the instrument seem to leap into new life beneath his fingers, just as everybody brightens beneath his eye. De Meyer makes no show of consequence as he plays; he means to please, and not to astonish you, and when he tries his best gives an arch glance from beneath his eyebrows, and smiles at you as if he enjoyed the whole matter, too. Old men and old women, and young men and young women, laugh with him and brighten about the eyes, and do all they can to keep their palms apart until the morceau is finished. Then he starts up, finishing the last notes as he stands, amid a storm of hands, and trots off, hands and gloves in hand, only to be recalled again for the sake of his dear old face, and once again for the sake of his wonderful skill, and again to receive the bouquets which are showered on him. It is a rare triumph this, for any artist.

M. Randolfi, who is becoming a great favorite in the concert-room, sang Lachner's "Thou Everywhere," with horn obligato by Mr. Schmitz, and "Ah per Sempre"—an air that every baritone has been in love with ever since it grew into its native sweetness under Bellini's pen. Mrs. Kempton's scena and cavatina from Rossi was less effective than her ballad, "Do you really think he did," and the two other ballads which she had the good judgment to sing on recall. There was a deal of interest, quite natural, manifested about the taste of "Don Carlos," given by the orchestra. It is one of those florid and fanciful combinations for which Verdi has made his act endings remarkable. It is eminently dramatic and effective, and the march that marks its course is as fine a piece of military music as Verdi has written.

The next concert at Steinway's will be the second of Mr. Harrison's Sunday concerts—to take place on the 13th—at which M. De Meyer and Mme. Parepa will both be heard.

Miscellaneous Matters.

"The Huguenots," which is to be revived at the Academy to-night, will have a remarkable cast, including Mme. Parepa, Senora Peralta, Signori Anastasi, Bellini and Medini.

Three performances of the drama "Under the Gaslight," are advertised for Brooklyn, to take place at the Academy of Music; the first is to be given to-night, the second to-morrow, for a matinée at 2 o'clock, and the third to-morrow night. The piece is to be given with the cast as seen at the New-York Theatre, and will mark the first and only appearances of Miss Rose Eytinge and Mr. J. K. Mortimer in Brooklyn. The new scenes from the New-York Theatre are to be used.

AFFAIRS AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Oct. 10.

THE SERENADE TO THE PRESIDENT.

The anticipated serenade to the President, arranged by his admirers and intended as a jubilation over the results of the recent elections, was postponed, and no definite time has yet been appointed when it will occur. The postponement, it is understood, was made at the instance of the President himself about 7 o'clock in the evening. However, a band of music paraded the streets, followed by a procession composed of members of a colored Masonic association. The sound of the music induced the belief that the announcement of the postponement was a mistake, and accordingly a large number of persons gathered in front of the White House, where they waited for several hours expecting a speech, until the true state of affairs transpired, when the crowd dispersed.

RUMORED CABINET CHANGES.

It is now generally conceded that Gen. Grant and Secretary McCulloch will soon be called on to leave the Cabinet. The friends of the Administration announce that as soon as proper persons can be selected as their successors, their resignations will be asked for.

THE OCTOBER ELECTION.

The Ohio and Pennsylvania voters who left here for the purpose of participating in Tuesday's elections have mostly returned. Parties from Philadelphia report that although the Democrats cheered Gen. McClellan, the Constitution and their successful candidates, but few cheers were given for President Johnson.

AWARD OF MEDALS OF HONOR.

Medals of honor are awarded to the following-named persons, who have performed signal acts of valor in the naval service: Charles H. Weeks, Captain of Foretop, United States steamer Susquehanna. On the 21st of September, 1864, the United States steamer Montauk, then off Charleston, was discovered to be on fire in the magazine light-room, on which occasion Chas. H. Weeks, who was Master-at-Arms of the vessel, displayed great presence of mind, and rendered valuable service in extinguishing the fire. Thomas Kane, Captain of the Hold, United States steamer Nereus, who, on the occasion of the assault on Fort Fisher, Jan. 1, 1865, behaved with conspicuous gallantry, having, under a heavy fire of musketry carried on his back a wounded messmate to a place of safety, and fearlessly exposed himself in assisting other wounded comrades whose lives were endangered. Frank du Moulin, apprentice United States steamer Sabine, who, on the 5th of September, 1867, jumped overboard and saved from drowning apprentice D'Orsay, who had fallen from the mizzen topmast rigging of the Sabine, in New-London harbor, and was rendered helpless by striking the mizzen rigging and boatdavit in the fall.

THE QUARTERLY REPORTS OF THE NATIONAL BANKS.

The quarterly reports of the National Banks are being received promptly at the office of the Comptroller of the Currency. About one half of these reports—eight hundred—showing the condition of the banks on the morning of the 1st inst., have already been received. The reserves of the banks are generally fully up to the requirements of the law, and their statements now are being printed in full to accompany the annual report of the Comptroller to Congress in November.

COUNTERFEIT UNITED STATES BONDS.

Considerable excitement has prevailed in the Treasury Department for several days past on account of the discovery of the counterfeiting of United States Bonds. Seventy thousand dollars in well-executed counterfeit Seven-Thirty Bonds of the second series, due June, 1868, of the thousand-dollar denomination, had been presented at the Treasury Department for redemption. All of them were either of the A or B series, ranging within the following-named thousands, viz.: 68,000, 140,000, 160,000 and 180,000.

The result of the examination as ordered by the Solicitor of the Treasury, is:

First—The seal is slightly larger than the genuine; the red ink with which it is stamped is a shade lighter, and the points projecting from the seal are blurred and a little longer than the genuine.

Second—The imprint at the bottom of the face of the bond is set different in the margin, there being more space given it than in the genuine.

Third—The borders of the coupons which are attached to the counterfeit bonds are larger, while the red figures are finer than in the genuine.

Fourth—The borders of the ornamental lathe-work are blurred and somewhat indifferently executed.

Fifth—The figures denoting the bond are slightly uneven, while the blue ink in which they are printed is a duller blue, and lacks the metallic, glossy appearance of the genuine.

Sixth—There is, to the experts, a difference in the vignette—the female figure on the face of the bond—the lines are not so well shaded, nor is the black ink so well distributed.

The counterfeit is regarded as one of the most dangerous that has yet been executed. It is declared to be superior to the counterfeit $500 greenbacks which were engraved by Uhlric, the plates of which Col. Wood has now in the Detective Department at the Treasury, while Uhlric is in prison.

The Evening Express says over $60,000 worth of these bonds have been sent to the Treasury Department for redemption by such banking houses in New-York as Messrs. Jay Cooke & Co., Vermilye & Co, Fisk & Hatch, and others.

Vermilye & Co. are the heaviest losers so far as reported. All these bonds are destroyed, and the bankers sending them in are not credited with them, so that the Government loses nothing while the bankers and brokers suffer, if they cannot go back on the parties from whom they purchased the counterfeit bonds.

This morning Hon. F. E. Spinner, Treasurer, made a thorough inspection of the bonds and pronounced them counterfeit. The letter F of Gen. Spinner's signature is very imperfect, and was soon detected by him in his inspection of the bonds. Henry D. Cooke, Esq., the resident partner in this city of the firm of Jay Cooke & Co., announces that the Philadelphia and Washington houses of their firm have not received any of the bonds, while those received by their New-York house are from responsible parties, and that their loss will be comparatively small.

Information received this morning by officials in the Treasury Department announces that the counterfeit bonds have been scattered freely through the bankers' and brokers' offices in New-York, while it is also thought that the counterfeits have found their way to the large Western cities.

PORT ENTRANCE AND CLEARANCE FEES ON THE LAKES.

In reply to a letter from the Special Agent of the Treasury, J. L. Kinsella, of Chicago, Ill., making inquiries concerning the fees to be collected in certain cases on the Northern, Northeastern and Northwestern frontiers of the United States, under the act of March 3, 1865, Secretary McCulloch replies:

First—That when a vessel enters light from the same or another district, she pays a fee of twenty-five cents for an official certificate to the master's oath on making report under the 16th paragraph of the act.

Second—That when a vessel enters with cargo from a port or place in the same district she pays a fee of 25 cents for a permit to stand or deliver goods under the 14th paragraph of the act.

Third—That when a vessel clears with, or without, cargo for a port or place in the same district, she pays a fee of 25 cents for a clearance and Collector's certificate under the 16th paragraph of the act.

Fourth—That when a vessel clears light from another district she pays the same fee that she would if laden under the seventh paragraph of the act.

Fifth—That vessels trading on Lake Michigan exclusively, laden with American products, pay the same fees on entry and clearance as on other vessels.

Sixth—That Collectors are authorized to charge a fee of twenty-five cents for certifying triplicate manifests of goods transported in bond from Eastern to Western ports, or vice versa, through Canada.

LOCAL POLITICS.

Union Republican General Committee—Report of the Delegation to Syracuse.

The Union Republican General Committee met at Headquarters, corner of Broadway and Twenty-third-street, last evening, to hear the report of RUFUS F. ANDREWS, Chairman of the Conservative Republican Delegation to the State Convention at Syracuse. Senator MURPHY occupied the chair and introduced Mr. ANDREWS, who gave a detailed history of the proceedings of the delegation, and the action of the Convention upon its reception, the substance of which was published at the time. He attributed the failure of the Convention to take action upon the recommendation of the Committee on Contested Seats, that steps be taken to reconcile the two Republican organizations in New-York City—to the fact that when the subject was brought before the Convention it was so late that most of the delegates had gone home, leaving the matter in the hands of the Radical delegation from New-York. After closing the report Mr. ANDREWS continued as follows:

The question now arises, what is our duty as Republicans in reference to the State ticket, in the nomination of which we were not allowed to participate? For my own part, and I think I speak the opinion of the members of this organization, I feel it my duty to support it. I can see no permanent security for the country except in that great party which stood by the Government in the prosecution of the war for the suppression of the rebellion, and the restoration of the Union. It must be purged of its unworthy members, and abandon the isms which fanatics have forced upon it, and it will again stand before the country as the National Republican Party that saved the Government in war, and is alone entitled to take care of it in time of peace. [Applause.] Mr. ANDREWS proceeded to speak of some of the objectionable acts and theories of the Republican Party with which he and others could not agree, but said he was disposed to pass them by till time shall determine whether they are right or wrong, and in the meantime no Republican should desert the ranks of his party, but rather the more earnestly work for the success of the cause. These errors would in time be corrected, but it was now essential that the party present a consolidated phalanx as in the days when it held up the hands of the great and good LINCOLN. [Applause.] He considered the whole question of reconstruction as yet experimental, and regretted that any steps had been taken to reconstruct the Southern States at all, for he believed the time had not come when the thing could be successfully done. A somewhat protracted experience among the Southern people since the close of the war had convinced him that no form of government will meet the exigencies of the situation, and protect alike the blacks and the whites for years to come, but a government military in its character. This was, in his opinion, the only form of government that will give security to life and property and prevent a conflict between the races. A military government under the direction of Gen. GRANT, [great applause,] with men like SHERIDAN and SICKLES [renewed applause] to administer the laws, was the best and safest that could be adopted till the blacks could be educated to understand what government means, and how it is to be supported and maintained. When this is done universal amnesty, with qualified suffrage based on intelligence, will present the only secure basis of permanent civil government for those States. He did not believe in any distinction of race or color in conferring the right to vote, but he did believe that no man ought to vote who had not sufficient intelligence to read and understand the Constitution and laws of the land, and, (if you please,) the Bible and Declaration of Independence. Apply this test to the voters of this City, and the Democratic Party would find their numbers "beautifully less," and, in his judgment, this would give us a better City Government.

He also differed from some of the party on the question of excise. He thought the present law oppressive, and calculated to injure the cause it seeks to promote, and he believed he expressed the sentiments of all connected with this organization when he said the law ought to be modified. [Applause.] We could not afford to refuse the appeal of our German fellow-citizens for a proper modification of the law. But they would gain nothing by going over to the Democratic Party, and could not benefit themselves by so doing, at least for some time to come. He concluded by exhorting his hearers to buckle on their armor for the coming contest. We had able leaders in the Senate in the persons of MORGAN and CONKLING, and whatever temporary reverses the party might meet with its ultimate triumph was sure. Providence had always found us men for the times, and even now was pointing to the great chieftain who is to restore the Government, and place it upon a lasting foundation. [Great applause.]

The report was received and the thanks of the meeting were tendered to the Chairman, and also to Senator MADDEA, who maintained the rights of the delegation in the Convention.

The Secretary, Mr. PLUMB, then offered resolutions, which were adopted, that the primary meetings of the party be held on Friday, Oct. 18.

On motion, a Select Committee, composed of R. F. ANDREWS, E. C. BENEDICT, E. DELAFIELD SMITH, JNO. KEYSER, and SHERIDAN SHOOK, was appointed to draft resolutions with regard to the action to be taken in the coming contest by the Union Republicans, the same to be presented by the Executive Committee at the next meeting of the General Committee, to be held on Wednesday evening of next week.

The meeting then adjourned.

The Mozart Assembly Nominations.

The Mozart wing of the Democratic Party last night held its conventions for the nomination of candidates for the Assembly in the twenty-one Assembly Districts, but in a large number failed to agree, or adjourned on account of the absence of some of the delegations. In some of the districts the conventions adjourned till after Tammany makes its nominations. In the First District, consisting of the First, Second, Third and Fifth Wards, the delegates met at No. 13 Harrison-street, and chose TERENCE DUFFY as chairman. The only name offered was that of CHARLES MOORE, who was nominated by acclamation.

In the Second District, consisting of the Fourth and part of the Sixth Wards, the Convention organized with JOHN MITCHELL as chairman, but adjourned to Thursday next, at 8 P. M.

In the Third District, consisting of the Fourteenth and part of the Sixth Wards, DANIEL O'REILLY received the nomination.

In the Fourth District, which is coterminous with the Seventh Ward, EDWARD F. KELLY was appointed Chairman, but the Convention adjourned to Friday next.

In the Fifth District, comprising the Eighth Ward and parts of the Ninth and Fifteenth, the Convention nominated CHRISTOPHER MONAHAN.

In the Sixth District, which includes the Thirteenth Ward, the Convention nominated FRED. ZIMMER.

In the Seventh District, comprising parts of the Ninth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth Wards, the Convention organized with L. M. VAN WART as Chairman, and nominated JOHN FOLAN as their candidate.

In the Eighth District, which is made up of parts of the Eleventh and Seventeenth Wards, with the Tenth, the Convention called JOHN D. EWEN to the chair, and then adjourned to Thursday next, at 8 P. M.

In the Ninth District, consisting of parts of the Ninth and Sixteenth Wards, the Convention was held at No. 7 Ninth-avenue. No nomination was made, and the Convention adjourned to next Thursday, same place.

The Tenth District, comprising four election districts of the Seventeenth Ward, adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

In the Eleventh Assembly District, composed of parts of the Eighteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-first Wards, part of the Twentieth Ward delegation not being present, the Convention adjourned to meet Friday night.

The Twelfth District, consisting of a portion of the Eleventh Ward, adjourned to Thursday next, same place, without making nominations.

In the Thirteenth District, being a portion of Sixteenth, the Convention met in Seventh-avenue, near Nineteenth-street. No nomination was made, and the meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

In the Fourteenth District, composed of part of the Seventeenth Ward, an adjournment was had subject to the call of the chair.

In the Fifteenth District, part of the Twentieth Ward, no nomination was made. The Convention will met again next Wednesday night.

In the Sixteenth District, which takes in part of the Eighteenth Ward, JAMES W. GERARD, Jr., received the nomination.

In the Seventeenth District, consisting of part of the Twenty-second Ward, the Convention organized and adjourned to Monday next.

German Democratic Union General Committee.

The German Democracy, of this City, under the auspices of the two German Democratic Central organizations—the Union General Committee and the State Campaign Association—held a mass ratification meeting at the Germania Assembly Rooms last night. The building was fully illuminated and in front a large crowd was in attendance, while several salutes were fired. The capacious meeting room was splendidly decorated with ball decorations representing the German and American colors. The meeting having been called to order, Coroner SCHIRMER was called upon to preside, whereupon a list of Vice-Presidents and Secretaries was presented and adopted. Resolutions were submitted indorsing the Albany Convention and the nominations made there for the State ticket. The resolutions were ordered to be published.

Mr. JOACHIMSON made a report of the operations of the delegations who represented the German Democratic Union General Committee, and Campaign organization at the Albany Convention; and Mr. WOLTMAN submitted a similar report in behalf of a committee appointed to operate in behalf of the county nominations made by the two German Democratic organizations. On motion of Mr. REIFFARTH, Mr. JOACHIMSON was nominated as candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court, and a committee of three appointed to recommend this candidate to the Tammany Judiciary Convention. Republican Meeting in the Seventeenth Assembly District.

A mass meeting was held at the hall corner of Broadway and Forty-seventh-street by the Republicans of the Seventeenth Assembly District last evening.

Mr. G. P. BRADFORD presided. He said that Mr. CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW had promised to be present, but he had been detained, and had sent as his substitute Mr. WILBUR, of Poughkeepsie.

Mr. WILBUR, who was the first speaker, referred to the news lately received from Pennsylvania and Ohio. Some, he said, might consider it bad news. He did not. It must be remembered that a Bull Run had been necessary to rouse us up to action in the late rebellion, and so now a few defeats were required to put the Republican Party on its metal. Mr. WILBUR then spoke of the action of President JOHNSON, who, he declared, was a traitor at heart. The question is, he said, can this nation live with a traitor at its head? He believed the country could survive even under these adverse circumstances. It had already shown a vitality that had astonished and confounded all its enemies. Mr. WILBUR concluded by referring to Gov. SEYMOUR's speech at Albany and the misstatements it contained on financial matters, and said that the resources of the country are more than sufficient to pay the national debt three times over.

Mr. LEE, of Connecticut, followed. He urged his hearers to do as SHERIDAN did in the Shenandoah Valley, face about and beat the enemy on their own ground.

The meeting shortly afterward adjourned.

Twenty-first Assembly District—Republican Meeting.

A meeting of the Twenty-first Assembly District Union Republicans was held last evening in Third-avenue, corner of One Hundred and Nineteenth-street. Mr. HORATIO P. ALLEN occupied the chair, and opened the meeting—which was a large one, filling the hall in which it was held to suffocation—with an energetic address. Mr. OTIS T. HALL proposed a series of resolutions indorsing the Republican Party, the action of Gens. GRANT, SICKLES and SHERIDAN, and denouncing President JOHNSON. They were unanimously adopted.

After the reading of the resolutions, Maj. HAGGERTY delivered an eloquent address. He was followed by Mr. HENRY S. SMITH, Capt. DAYTON and others.

The Randall's Island Celebration To-Day.

The members of the New-York Caledonian Club, and a large party of distinguished officials, including the Mayor and the members of the Board of Education, visit Randall's Island to-day to witness the military training of the children, and contribute to the enjoyment of the youngsters whom misfortune has placed for the time in a position of dependence. The members of the Club will appear in their picturesque costume, with the accompaniments of their bag-pipe band. A circular from the Club announces that "The committee appointed have made the arrangements necessary to carry out the wishes of the Club, and earnestly urge on all the importance of having as large a representation as possible on this occasion, that we may show to the gentlemen from whom the invitation emanated how much we prize their unusual and honorable courtesy. Costumed members are specially requested to turn out, as the purpose is to do us honor, and a very pleasant gathering is confidently anticipated. The Club will meet at their rooms at 8 o'clock A. M. on Friday, the 11th inst., and will march from thence to the boat provided for their accommodation. The ladies of members are also cordially invited to be present. Steamboats leaving Peck-slip for Harlem at 11:30 A. M. and 1:30 P. The Twelfth Ward School Trustees have the direction of it; and their worthy and active President, Mr. STRAITON, will attend to the details.

Board of Councilmen.

This Board met at 2 o'clock P. M., yesterday, Mr. BRINKMAN in the chair.

A resolution was offered by Mr. HART, that the Committee on Public Buildings inquire into and report upon the propriety of enacting an ordinance prohibiting the storing of petroleum, earth and coal oils, and in view of the combustible materials in whisky, to provide for the licensing or otherwise supervising the distillation of whisky in the City limits. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings.

Mr. GILMORE offered a resolution rescinding the resolution granting the Park Bank permission to erect a portico and pillars in front of its building in Broadway, near Ann-street.

Mr. GILMORE said that he had become convinced the erection of such a portico would prove an obstruction in this crowded part of the City, and therefore he hoped his resolution would be adopted.

Mr. STACOM thought Mr. GILMORE, in offering the resolution was merely attempting to curry favor with a certain newspaper publisher, but such an attempt would prove abortive. He would find it a hard matter to get this person's favor. The Park Bank was not being allowed more privileges than the proprietors of other buildings in the neighborhood.

Mr. GILMORE's resolution was adopted.

A communication from the Mayor in relation to the License Law, and a resolution from the other Board in connection with the same were referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

The Board adjourned to Monday next.

Board of Health.

The Board of Health met yesterday, President SCHULTZ in the chair.

With reference to a tannery at No. 407 Tenth-avenue, referred to the Board as a nuisance, the Committee reported having visited the establishment on the 7th instant, and failed to discover anything offensive in connection therewith. The Committee recommended the reference of the whole matter to the Sanitary Superintendent for investigation.

Applications were received from butchers for permits to slaughter animals in the upper portions of the city, some of which were granted and others refused. Complaints having been made by residents of the neighborhood against WALSTEIN G. FOX, proprietor of a licensed slaughter-house at No. 298 West Fifty-first-street, his permit was revoked.

The Board then adjourned until Thursday next, at 2 o'clock P. M.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL No. 11.—Yesterday was commencement day at Grammar School No. 11. The exercises began at 2 P. M., and were highly interesting throughout. The class-room in which the exercises were held was handsomely decorated, and crowded with the parents and friends of the pupils. Rev. Dr. THOMSON opened the exercises with prayer. The Trustees of the school were upon the platform—JAMES R. LEAMING, M. D., L. A. ROSENMILLER, M. D., JOHN D. LAMATER, BENJAMIN C. WANDELL, HENRY V. MEAD. The exercises were very interesting. The reading from TENNYSON—scenes from the Princess—was admirably given, and the dialogue in German—"Gauschen von Bachenan"—won the plaudits of the Germans in the audience. It was the reappearance in the school-room of some fifty of the former scholars, now grown men, who had prearranged the visit to their old preceptor, Mr. LEONARD HAZELTINE, who had been for many years the Principal in this school. Old friendships were renewed and many and happy were the congratulations and good wishes passed between the visitors and their old teacher. Among those who were present were some who attended this school thirty years ago. Remarks were made by Mr. F. C. WAGNER, now a School Trustee, and formerly one of Mr. HAZELTINE's scholars, and the members of the old ninth class were then severally introduced. The visit occupied about an hour.

COOK's rectifying establishment, at No. 25 Front-street, for irregularities in the books. Eighty-three barrels of whisky at the Erie Railroad pier, marked for transportation to the Sixth District of New-York, and consigned to S. N. PIKE. As the above lot is from Ohio, it is thought to be a portion of the very large quantity said to have been shipped from the West. There is a suspicion attached to forty barrels of whisky lying for the past three days on Pier No. 7, North River, said to be awaiting shipment on board the British bark Alpha. Information has reached the Revenue officers that 100 gallons of whisky have been forwarded from Philadelphia recently in an irregular manner. The authorities are in possession of facts which will lead to the recovery of the whisky spirited away after seizure from one of the docks during Tuesday night.

It is sheathed with an entire sheet of bark, and is sixteen feet long by four feet wide. It is a perfect model of its kind, and will soon be launched upon the Lake in Central Park.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT AT THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE FAIR.—As Mr. DEAN S. LINNELL, agent for the Hope Iron Foundry, of Providence, R. I., was exhibiting an engine yesterday, he, by a misstep, fell on the fly-wheel, which carried him twice around and finally threw him against an iron pump. Fortunately no bones were broken, though Mr. LINNELL sustained several severe contusions on the head and body. He was removed to the New-York Hospital.

FROM REV. S. J. CORNEILLE,

Rector of All Saints' Church, New-York.

No. 30 GOUVERNEUR-ST., New-York.

Dr. Lighthill:

DEAR SIR: It is with great pleasure I tender you this acknowledgment of my appreciation of the benefit that I have derived from your treatment. I present it that others who may be suffering from like causes as myself, may, through the publication of my experience, learn that under your care relief can be obtained.

I have been afflicted with catarrh for many years, which at one time threatened the loss of my voice, and undermined my general health to such an extent as to necessitate a suspension of my pastoral duties. Two months of your medical treatment, however, afforded me such invaluable relief that I was enabled to resume my duties, and to perform them now without the slightest inconvenience.

Having the highest appreciation of your medical skill, and with many thanks for uniform kindness and courtesy, I am, dear Sir,

Yours, very gratefully,
S. J. CORNEILLE,
Rector of All Saints' Church.

FROM C. C. WAITE, ESQ.,

Proprietor of the Brevoort House, New-York.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Having experienced in my own case the beneficial effects of the skill and experience of Dr. LIGHTHILL in the treatment of Catarrh, and knowing of his success in many other cases treated by him, I take pleasure in recommending him to my friends and the public.

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS.
FOR SICK HEADACHE—ITS SYMPTOMS, CAUSE AND CURE.

This has received its name from a constant nausea or sickness at the stomach, which attends the pain in the head. This headache is apt to begin in the morning on waking from a deep sleep, and when some irregularity of diet has been committed on the day before, or sometimes for several days previous. At first there is a distressingly oppressive feeling in the head, which gradually merges into a severe heavy pain in the temples frequently attended by a sense of fullness and tenderness in one eye, and extending across the forehead. There is a clammy, unpleasant taste in the mouth, and offensive breath, and the tongue covered with a yellowish white fur. The sufferer desires to be alone in a dark room. As soon as the patient feels the fullness in the head and pain in the temples, take a large dose of Schenck's Mandrake Pills, and in an hour or two they will feel as well as ever. This has been tried by thousands, and always sure to cure; and instead of the sick headache coming on every week or ten days, they will not be troubled with it once in three months.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills are composed of a number of roots, besides Podophillin, or concentrated Mandrake, all of which tend to relax the secretions of the liver, and act more prompt than blue pills or mercury, and without leaving any dangerous effects. In a bilious person they will show themselves by the stools. They will expel worms, mucus, bile and all morbid matter from the system. In sick headache, if they are taken as directed above, (a full dose as soon as they feel the first symptoms of it,) Dr. Schenck will, and has directed his agents to refund the money if they do not give perfect satisfaction.

They only cost 25 cents a box.

Whoever takes them will never use any other. They are worth a dollar to a sick man for every cent they cost.

Don't forget the name, SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS.

Dr. SCHENCK is professionally at NO. 32 BOND-ST., NEW-YORK, every Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover-st., Boston, every Wednesday.

He is also professionally at his principal office, No. 15 North 6th-st., corner of Commerce, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer, the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Sea-Weed Tonic $1 50 per bottle, or $7 50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills, 25 cents per box. A full supply of Dr. Schenck's medicines for sale at all times at his rooms.

Publish This Day:
BIRDS OF PREY.
A NOVEL.
By Miss M. E. BRADDON;
Author of
"Aurora Floyd." "John Marchmont's Legacy."
"Eleanor's Victory." &c.
WITH ILLUSTRATIONS.
8vo. Paper, 75 cents.

"In 'Birds of Prey' there are signs of vigor and purpose, and a mastery of language which indicate transcendent talent. Whoever reads 'Birds of Prey' will feel to a certain extent under a spell. The author possesses in an eminent degree the power of riveting the attention of her readers; the dialogue never halts nor interrupts the progress of the story, but carries us on in a natural and easy manner from incident to incident. There is not a page that may not be read with pleasure, for there is a rich flow of language which is exceedingly delightful and always interesting. We often hear of authors writing themselves out, each effort being the ghost of a former one; but what must be said of the author of 'Birds of Prey,' whose last work excels all her previous writings in design, in power and in judgment? Here we have characters thoroughly developed, and we become acquainted with them like friends whom we have met; and they are so individualized that we can see them before us, and almost take part in the dialogue like one of themselves. This great power of embodying a group of characters so that the reader seems to live and move with them, is given only to a few—it is the 'touch of nature' which distinguishes genius from talent. Each page is vivid with interest, and it is difficult to lay down the book when once taken up."—London Weekly Times.

"Hundreds of thousands of English and American readers will close 'Birds of Prey' with the exclamation, 'True to the life.'"—Cosmopolitan.

"Miss Braddon's preëminence in her own line of fiction is a very striking literary phenomenon, and her latest novel asserts that preëminence so strongly that it must be awarded a high place, perhaps the highest, among her creations. * * * As story after story flow from her pen in uninterrupted succession, it is found, as in 'Birds of Prey,' that all the best qualities are still present—that the interest is fresh and absorbing—that the dialogue is perfectly natural, but highly dramatic—that the characters establish themselves at once in the mind as personages never to be forgotten—and that the morale, though never obtruded or preached about, is at every turn of the story as pure and healthy as in tales written with the prosy purpose of enforcing certain obvious rules of life."—The Leader.

THE WEBER PIANO-FORTE
is called the best instrument made by all the leading musicians of this City and elsewhere. It is pronounced by the National Piano-forte Association, after a trial in their rooms with the first manufactures of this country, eminently the best Piano in America, and used by the Conservato of Music and other high music schools altogether, because of their immense power, equality, sweetness and brilliancy of tone, elastic touch and great durability. Warerooms No. 429 Broome-st., near Broadway.

MASON AND HAMLIN, MANUFACTURERS OF CABINET ORGANS, No. 596 Broadway, New-York, have been awarded a FIRST PRIZE MEDAL at the PARIS EXPOSITION. Fifty styles at $75 to $1,000 each. Second hand instruments of various makers at low prices. ORGANS TO RENT.

NEW PATENT PIANOS.
RAVEN & BACON, Manufacturers of Piano-fortes with Patent Combination Sounding-Boards.
This invention, introduced exclusively into our Pianos, is of the greatest advantage to the tone of the instrument, as it affects the Sounding-Board—the very soul of the Piano—and produces thereby a pure liquid tone, greatly superior in quality and power to that of the ordinary Piano. The Sounding-Board, released from its connection with the piano-case and resting upon under sounding-boards, is relieved from the rigidity caused by such connection, and its vibratory quality greatly increased. All lovers of this eminently household instrument, as well as parties proposing to purchase new Pianos, are invited to call and examine our assortment. Warerooms, 644 and 646 Broadway, N. Y.

A WELL-MERITED SUCCESS.
The celebrated BRASS INSTRUMENTS manufactured by the SCHREIBER CORNET COMPANY have obtained the
FIRST MEDAL
at the International Exhibition in Paris, for their beautiful, clear and sympathetic sound and novelty of construction, combining the greatest advantages for the performer with excellence of material and great durability.

PIANO-FORTES.—JENNYS & SON, MANUFACTURERS, Nos. 233 and 235 East 21st-st.—Parties looking for a first-class instrument would do well to examine those of this firm; they are superior in tone and finish, and in price are much below their competitors.

The Dull Season—Disraeli and the Politicians—Sir Frederick Bruce—Literary Scandals and Rumors—The Theatres.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LONDON, Saturday, Sept. 28, 1867.

This is not the season in which to expect political events of any interest. Everybody is out of town now, even editors of morning newspapers, whom I take to be the hardest-worked people in the world. Where is your "working-man," after all, who slaves as these servants of that much-courted tyrant, the public, do? An eight hours' law for editors and their staffs would be something worth striking for; but they are not only compelled to labor night and day, but are not allowed even to enjoy rest on the Sunday; and while everyone is on the alert to find fault with them, nobody thinks of giving them any credit for their successes. These ill-used folks, however, are mostly out on holiday now, and I suppose morning papers are only kept going by making the self-sacrificing spirits who remain in town work double tides. This is consequently the time when extraordinary mistakes may be looked for in the daily sheet, and when the poor sub-editor's life becomes a burden to him, and when the "popular papers" burst forth in the most beautiful writing you ever saw. What do you think of this, for instance: "Here, indeed, we touch upon a social problem on which the fire of the fiercest passions, and the gloom of an undying sin, shed at once a lurid light and melancholy shade; but better surely tell all, and abide the penance of the fault, than live above a loaded mine, at the mercy of the match." That is how English is written in the present day for the respected multitude, at the rate of four leaders a day and all the murders for one penny! The shop at which the article is to be bought is the Daily Telegraph. I am told it is a prosperous shop, although one of its chief agents has recently gone through the Insolvent Court on the plea of "insufficient salary." Is it possible that the geniuses who write the splendid leaders which thrill our souls are kept on short allowance? Or was Mr. SALA only having a joke at the expense of his employers—the only thing he can get at their expense, according to his own account?

If editors are all away, you may be sure that politicians are not left behind. DISRAELI has made another appearance as the country squire with eminent success. How perfect all his speeches are! There is no man alive who can so easily and so naturally adapt himself to the tastes of his audience as this celebrated professor of political jugglery. As a "statesman" one may dislike him cordially, but it is impossible to withhold our admiration for his genius. He spoke to the Buckinghamshire farmers as if he had spent his life among them, and had thought of nothing else but their interests. Lord PALMERSTON used to try very hard to make genial sort of speeches to his country friends in the recess, but the effort was too manifest—and besides he always talked the most incoherent nonsense and twaddle ever listened to. Now, DISRAELI compliments his rustic audience by speaking to them as men of the world. In this pliancy of temperament he is infinitely the superior of GLADSTONE. That eminent failure has also been making a speech on the occasion of the opening of some docks, and what inflated, pompous, meaningless stuff it was! The Saturday Review of to-day aptly characterizes the style as GLADSTONE'S "very best funereal manner." It makes one unutterably miserable to read the speech. The Saturday shrewdly remarks that "it is because Mr. DISRAELI knows men, that he is where he is, at the very top of the political tree, while his rival is croaking horribly against him on the lower branches." GLADSTONE'S feelings toward the great conjuror cannot, indeed, be of the most pleasant kind. He might have been Prime Minister now if he had been worthy of the position, but he failed, and the adroit and elastic lieutenant of Lord DERBY jumped into the position. Think how many men he has silenced this session—all the Radicals and three-fifths of his own party! BERESFORD HOPE he killed off with an epithet, Lord CRANBORNE with a sneer, and the smaller fry he scattered on every side. After all, it is a great thing to have a pugnacious tendency, if you know exactly where to hit your man and when to do it.

While some members of "the House" have been imparting wisdom to the agricultural population, others have sought amusement from more dangerous sources. There is, for instance, Mr. HENRY LABOUCHERE, who got himself involved in a row at the Kursaal with an Italian named FARINA—at least that is one of his names. The question which has lately been discussed at dinner parties is, did the Italian, who says he isn't an adventurer, cane LABOUCHERE, or did he not? The latter says not, and he ought to know, one would suppose; but I have heard of one or two similar cases, in which the punished person denied all knowledge of the visitation which befel him. I am told, however, by a friend who saw the fearful encounter, that FARINA—who appears to be an eau de cologne dealer of high moral character—did not strike LABOUCHERE, but only laid his hand upon his collar, which hand was promptly removed. Nobody believes FARINA'S word, chiefly, I think, because his name is on the eau de cologne bottles, and everyone has been taken in with them at some time or other. You never know when you get the true Farina, and there seems to be the same doubt about getting the truth out of him. At any rate Mr. LABOUCHERE will have to give an account of himself to his constituents, and he will not find it a pleasant task. Fancy having to apologize to one's constituents for being thrashed! In the rural parts of England it is firmly believed that all Frenchmen and Italians eat frogs, and nothing else. Now to have one's member flogged by a "frog-eater" of the name of FARINA—I would that some one would find out whether he really is the only true and genuine FARINA—is an indignity which no right-minded constituency can be expected to swallow. Therefore, Mr. LABOUCHERE had better make up a good story before he goes home, and tell it well. A fellow-member, Mr. JOHN HARDY, has managed to embroil himself into a still more needless scrape. He saw a man poaching, as he thought, and went up to him and seized his gun and threw it into a pit. It turned out that the man had a perfect right to shoot on the land where he was found, and so Mr. HARDY—who is a brother of our present Home Secretary—was fined £5, and served him right too. He was not content to let the case stop there, but wrote letters to the papers making out that his conduct gave himself perfect satisfaction. He will probably find at the next election that his constituents are of a different mind. Even members of Parliament cannot do as they please, although it is commonly said by our respected friends, the Fenians, that they can.

The news of the death of Sir FREDERICK BRUCE was received with great surprise and regret in London. I happened to hear of the event a few hours after it happened, through the means of the Cable, and I thought at once of the sudden stroke by which Sir FREDERICK'S brother had been removed in India, while I was living there four years ago. Poor Lord ELGIN had arrived at the greatest position in the gift of the Crown, and was rapidly familiarizing himself with the intricacies of Indian questions and the infinite varieties of native character. A walk across a bridge of rushes killed him. He was a little tired and excited, and disease of the heart soon laid him in a quiet churchyard among the Himalayas. Then his brother, Gen. BRUCE Prince of Wales to Canada—died very suddenly, and now a man, who was the superior of them both in many respects, is gone. Overwhelming indeed are the afflictions which the survivors of this shattered family are called upon to bear. Sir FREDERICK was a man of rare attainments, and of the keenest sagacity and penetration. He had studied the working of your Government with patient and discerning care, and understood it as well as any foreigner is ever likely to do. He was a great admirer of the national character, and he tried faithfully to do his duty in a very onerous and trying position. He is a loss to the English Government which they will find it very hard to replace.

You will have heard so much about the rescue of Fenians at Manchester, that I do not intend to trouble you with more than a dozen words about it, and they shall be simply to ask you to believe that England is not "paralyzed" by what has happened, neither are Englishmen inclined to be bloodthirsty about the matter. You will probably hear a good deal about the Sepoys just now, and be informed that we are all horribly scared. Judge for yourself how much of all this is true; but is it too much to ask that we should be allowed to punish these Fenians without reproaches and taunts from your side? Here is a poor fellow, who had no more to do with the wrongs of Ireland than you or I, shot dead at his post by a cowardly scoundrel, who is merely bent on a robbing and murdering expedition. A hundred armed Irishmen attack three totally unarmed men, and kill one of them—who gave no sort of offence to anybody—in the public street. This is Irish valor and pluck, is it? The murdered man's wife and family are left penniless and unprovided for, and the only result to the Fenians themselves, is that numbers of them have been arrested and put in jail. What, one asks in sadness, can such things as these do for Ireland? What wrongs were ever righted by dastardly assassinations of innocent men? I say, for my part, that if it is proved the authorities have caught the murderer of poor BRETT, I hope he will meet with his deserts, and it will be very strange if he does not.

We have had one or two lively little literary scandals of late. In the first place, Mr. EDMOND YATES, who was once expelled from the Garrick Club for caricaturing THACKERAY, has been writing an article in the Broadway, "taking off" certain well-known persons who are said to have done him no further harm than to treat him with hospitality. Among the other rubbish in the first number of Broadway was an article entitled "In the Season," by Mr. YATES. A literary "gent" must produce a sensation to keep his name up, and so Mr. YATES gave smart sketches of every one whom he knows. Under the name of "Lady Leighton Buzzard" he gives a coarse account of a widely-known and estimable lady, who has received Mr. YATES in her house. "Viscount Talkington," another of his friends, he describes as a "moody man, with a face like a sheep." He proceeds to deal in the same free manner with Mr. BERNAL OSBORNE, the Bishop of Oxford, and, in short, every one he has met in friends' houses. Is not this a sweet acquaintance to have? Who would not like to have Mr. YATES home to dinner, to find himself and his wife prettily touched off in a future number of the Broadway? But the Saturday Review, whose proprietors come in for a share of Mr. YATES' attentions, will remember him, and some day pay off the score. Do you admire the way things are managed in the fast literary world?

Beside this, Miss BRADDON has been found out in a very shabby transaction. She has published in her very stupid magazine, Belgravia, a story called Circe, purporting to be original, and in reality stolen from M. OCTAVE FEUILLET. The author of Circe was announced as a Mr. BABBINGTON WHITE, who turns out to be none other than Miss BRADDON herself. Is she not a monstrously clever woman? But it appears that the interesting novelist has palmed off a double deception on the public—first by selling them a story as original which she "conveyed" from a French author, and then by hiding herself behind a fictitious name. Upon the whole I do not see how it can be said that our new style of magazine is very creditable to the literature of the country or the age.

Have you read Dr. BRADY'S adventures, by W. H. RUSSELL? It is very amusing, and very interesting besides. By the bye, I saw in the World, of your City, the other day, a statement that Mr. GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA was appointed successor to a friend of mine, as correspondent of the London Times in America. Wonderful announcement! I do not know Mr. SALA, but I remember to have seen the person the World has appointed him to succeed, and I should think he would be very much astonished at this news. I have heard that his post is not vacant, and that he is only absent from America temporarily, and that he is very busy publishing a book—the unwise man! In any case, what could my friend Mr. M—— have been about to accredit Mr. SALA to the paper in question? And where was Mr. H——? He ought to have known better. But that staid and quiet citizen, that melancholy and delusive Christian, was, of course, somewhere near the great wall of China, or inquiring into the domestic economy of the Bokhanese, on the day the paper appeared. I have always thought that H—— would be delightful, if it were only possible to get him away from home now and then. But what fun is there in knowing a man who is always to be found in one place, and cannot be got ten miles from his own doorstep? Give me a friend whom you meet in Fifth-avenue one day, and hear of at the other end of the world a month after, when everybody thought he was quietly at work. If H—— could only get a little of this sort of disposition, and give up his stay-at-home propensities! There are few Americans in London just now. The last I saw here was Senator HOWE, of Wisconsin—no, I met Col. STEBBINS, of your City, wandering in somewhat pensive mood in Regent-street. Need I say that they all fly from London in a few days, and think they have seen everything in it?

The theatres are opening for the Winter. Miss MARIE WILTON resumes "Caste"—one of the best society plays of modern times—to-night, at the Tottenham Court Road band-box. What a pity Mr. LESTER WALLACK was jostled out of that piece, after having paid like an honorable man for it, while his rival didn't! Mr. WALLACK deserved to profit by what he came into possession of honestly, and "Caste" would, I should have thought, exactly suit his theatre—but what is the good of being honest in the theatrical profession? Never was such a losing game. Mr. BENJAMIN WEBSTER begins playing next week at the Adelphi, and Mr. ALFRED WIGAN, (whom your older playgoers may remember as having had the Olympic in ROBSON'S time,) opens a new theatre some time in October. A new play by the author of "Caste," called "For Love; or The Two Heroes," is to be produced this night week at the Holborn Theatre. Mr. and Mrs. CHARLES MATHEWS are going to play again at the Olympic. Mrs. ALFRED MELLON has been appointed directress of the Adelphi Theatre, and a new actress named Miss ROSE MASSEY is to make her début to-night at MARIE WILTON'S Theatre. FECHTER is about to retire from the English stage, despairing of being able to maintain his foothold there, and rumor says that a "great tragedian" is shortly to appear in the theatrical world. You will thus perceive that we are going to have a "lively time" here very soon.

Dr. PETERSON, a homeopathic physician, at Waterloo, Seneca County, committed suicide, on the 8th inst., by shooting himself. He left a letter to his wife stating the cause to be the insufficiency of his practice to support him. He was formerly a Captain in the regular army, and a graduate of West Point.

THE TURF.

Trotting on Fashion Course—Mr. J. S. Watson's Brother to Bruno Wins the Stake for Three-year Olds—Gen. Butler Wins his Match with Mountain Maid.

Yesterday the lovers of trotting had a capital day's sport on the Fashion Course, L. I., for two very interesting races were announced for decision. The first was the Long Island Stake for three-year-olds, $500 entrance, half forfeit, and $100 if declared, with $250 added by the proprietor of the Course; the second horse to save his stake. For this stake there were sixteen subscribers, four of whom declared and paid $100, six of the remainder $250 forfeit, and six came to the post. A finer set of three-year olds was never before seen together on a trotting track than the six high-bred colts that contended yesterday for the rich stake at issue, the monetary value of which was $4,650. The starters were as follows: 1. Capt. Rynders' b. c. Cavalier, by Rysdick's Hambletonian, dam Widow Machree; 2. F. J. Nodine's b. c. Peacemaker, by Rysdick's Hambletonian; 3. Mr. Littell's b. c. Puritan, by Rysdick's Hambletonian; 4. J. S. Watson's br. c. by Rysdick's Hambletonian, out of the dam of Bruno and Brunette, and consequently full brother to both the latter; 5. Mr. Goldsmith's b. f. Ristori, by Volunteer; 6. Mr. Smith's gr. c. Granite State, by Duke of Wellington. The six horses that preferred paying $250 forfeit to starting were H. D. Felter's b. c. Hambletonian; Mr. Hawkins' br. c. Kearsarge; Mr. Vail's bl. c. Naubuc; Mr. Van Wyck's colt, by Jupiter Abdallah; Mr. Relf's b. c. Eschol, and Mr. L. L. Dorsey's c. Golden Rose. Cavalier was driven by Hiram Howe; Brother to Bruno by Budd Doble; Ristori by Ben Mace; Puritan by Dan Mace; Granite State by George Carpenter, and Peacemaker by J. F. Nodine. In the pools, Brother to Bruno, of whose speed rumor spoke highly, had the call of everything in the race, selling for $300; Peacemaker, $125; Granite State, $120; Ristori, 115; Cavalier, $33; and Puritan $11. Cavalier was and had been for some days before, lame, and his owner, Captain RYNDERS, only started him to win some play or pay bets he had about him; but, as will be seen from the subjoined account of the race, he proved himself a wonderful game and fast colt, and a worthy son of his dam, the famous Widow Machree, one of the gamest mares that ever trotted on the American turf. Had he been all right, it is possible that the result might have been different. The favorite, Brother to Bruno, showed that the current rumors of his merits were well founded, for he won both heats cleverly, although the time made was far from being as fast as was anticipated; the betting running on 2:45 being made or beaten. The owners of Ristori, Peacemaker and Puritan were vastly disappointed at their colts being distanced in the first heat. The race was mile and repeat, in harness.

FIRST HEAT.—The favorite had the pole, Peacemaker second, Granite State, Ristori, Puritan and Cavalier in the order named. After half a dozen fruitless attempts to get the word, the judges ordered them to start in a line from the distance stand, and as they came up to the score the word "go" was given. As they went round the upper turn the favorite was in front, with Cavalier at his wheel, and Granite State next. They began to string out as they approached the quarter-pole, which Brother to Bruno passed in 45 seconds, half a length only before Cavalier, who was three lengths before Granite State, and Peacemaker six lengths behind the latter. A beautiful race along the backstretch past the old stand was witnessed between the favorite and Cavalier, the former having his neck in front for some distance. At the half-mile pole, however, which was reached in 1:27, Brother to Bruno opened a gap of a length and a half, the gallant little son of Widow Machree being fully six lengths before Granite State, and Peacemaker double that distance before the other two, whose chance of being shut out seemed pretty certain. On the Flushing end, Ristori passed Peacemaker, but could not improve her position with regard to the leaders. The favorite still held his own as they turned into the homestretch, Cavalier a couple of lengths behind him, but fully ten lengths before Granite State, and in this way they came home; Brother to Bruno winning by three lengths, and Cavalier ten lengths before Granite State—the other three distanced. Time, 2:52¾.

SECOND HEAT.—One hundred to thirty on Brother to Bruno. They got the word at the first attempt; the favorite opening a gap of two lengths around the turn, Cavalier as far before the gray colt. They went thus to the quarter-pole in 44 seconds, just before reaching which Brother to Bruno broke, but caught immediately. On the backstretch Cavalier opened a wide gap of half a dozen lengths between himself and the gray, and made it into ten lengths at the half-mile pole, being himself three lengths behind the favorite at that point; time, 1:26. In these relative positions the race was trotted out, Brother to Bruno crossing the score three lengths before Cavalier, and Granite State ten lengths behind the latter. Time, 2:52¾.

FASHION COURSE, L. I., Oct. 10.—The great Long Island Colt Stake for three-year-olds; $500 entrance, $250 forfeit and $100 if declared—$250 added by the proprietor of the course; mile and repeat, in harness, second horse to save his stake.

A match for $2,000, mile heats, best three in five, in harness, between Mr. CHARLES REVERE'S celebrated blk. g. Gen. Butler, and Mr. CLARK'S b. m. Mountain Maid, came off the same afternoon. JOHN LOVETT drove the black gelding, and BUDD DOBLE the mare. The latter was the favorite at the start at $100 to $80 on her. Butler had only recently returned from the West, and had hardly recovered from a long journey by rail, and had taken very little exercise. As it was, he made a splendid race of it, and by sheer gameness came off victorious.

FIRST HEAT.—Mountain Maid took the lead and kept four lengths ahead all the way round, trotting the quarter in 36 seconds and the half in 1:13. At the distance stand she was two lengths ahead, but Butler came with a tremendous burst of speed, and after a magnificent finish, beat her half a length to the score in 2:26.

SECOND HEAT.—Betting $100 to $80 on Butler, who waited behind all the way until coming up the straight, when he passed the mare, caused her to break, and won by three lengths, in 2:27¾.

THIRD HEAT.—One hundred dollars to $25 on Butler. The mare took and kept the lead of three lengths to the half-mile pole, where she made a double break, and Butler passing her, kept in front all the way home, winning the heat and race by two lengths, in 2:29¾.

During the heats of the above race, Commodore VANDERBILT'S b. g. Mountain Boy was brought out and speeded half a mile, SAM. MCLAUGHLIN driving him. He trotted the first quarter in 33¾, and the half mile in 1:07¾.

Correction.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In the report of the race between Lady Thorn and Mountain Boy, in your paper of the 8th instant, it is stated that Hambletonian "is not likely to survive long, being dangerously ill." This is incorrect. Hambletonian is not dangerously ill, and never has been in his whole life. A few weeks ago he had an attack of rheumatism, which induced me to withdraw him from the stud for the balance of the season. The attack, not so heavy as was at first thought, yielded readily to the usual remedies, and Hambletonian is to-day sound and hearty, and, barring age, in every respect as good a horse as he was when he sired Dexter. His own sire, Abdallah, lived to be 29 years old, and got some of his best stock in the last years of his life, and I confidently anticipate an equally lengthened career for the son.

WILLIAM M. RYSDYK, owner of Hambletonian.

THE UNION LEAGUE CLUB.

Resolutions in Memory of the Late Dr. Charles King—Presentation to the Club of a Marble Bust and a Bronze Group.

The Union League Club held its regular monthly meeting last evening, the President, Mr. JAY, in the Chair.

The President called the attention of the Club to a beautiful marble bust of the late ROBERT B. MINTURN, the first President of the Club, which had been presented by several members, and to a group in bronze of Mr. LINCOLN supporting a slave, the work of a French artist, M. FALCONNIER, who had sent it to the Club through W. E. CATLIN, accompanied by a letter, which he read.

After the election of new members and the voting of thanks to M. FALCONNIER Dr. FRANCIS LEIBER offered, with some remarks, the following resolutions:

The information of the death of CHARLES KING, LL.D., late President of Columbia College and one of the founders of the Union League Club, having reached this country since our last meeting, at which we commemorated the death of his brother, the late Gov. JOHN ALSOP KING; therefore,

Resolved, That we deeply feel the setting out for a better world of these two brothers, almost on the same day, and after having spent lives of nearly the same duration, equally public-spirited and patriotic—equally devoted to the national character of our Government and to our country, whole and unimpaired by unmeaning sovereignties.

Resolved, The memory of CHARLES KING will be ever dear to the members of this Association, as the memory of one who dutifully and consistently ad- [illegible] RUFUS KING, against that institution which ultimately led to the late rebellion—as the memory of one who unreservedly and unceasingly spoke out his conviction against slavery in the journal established by himself in early manhood, at a time when it neither promoted a man's interest nor gained him friends or society, wishing to do so—as the memory of one who, though closely allied to the South by family ties, never [illegible] to that subserviency to the South which was not wholly absent from the class of society to which he belonged, and which has brought us the bitterest fruit; and as the memory of him who, when President of Columbia College and first President of our Loyal Publication Society, which he also helped to found, far advanced in age, handed, in front of this building, the national flag, and delivered the speech of welcome as well as of parting to the first colored regiment which this Club sent into the field, and the first which marched from this City within a few months after the barbarous riots against the colored people had taken place.

Resolved—There will always be mingled with these solemn memories the recollection of his most kindly temper and genial character, buoyant to the very day when he was attacked by the fatal malady which carried him off from this earth in the eightieth year of his life; for, as he loved to express it, the Constitution of the United States and he were born in the same year.

Resolved—That the President be requested to send a copy of these resolutions to the honored widow of our late fellow member, and to his bereft family.

The resolutions were supported in eloquent remarks by Dr. LIEBER, Mr. GEORGE W. BLUNT, Mr. ISAAC H. BAILEY and Dr. JOSEPH P. THOMPSON, who gave a graphic and pleasing sketch of Mr. KING'S last Winter in Rome.

The President, in putting the question, referred to his long intimacy with Mr. KING, and his warm sympathy with the eulogies that had been pronounced upon his character.

Mr. GEO. CALEB WARD announced the death of Hon. CHARLES G. LORING, President of the Union Club, of Boston, and offered resolutions expressive of the loss sustained by the country at large, and especially to the State to which he was so great an ornament, in the death of one who was at once the learned jurist, the accomplished gentleman and the patriot, and tendering to the Union Club over which he had presided their most cordial sympathy and condolence.

The Club then adjourned.

SEVEN-THIRTY BONDS COUNTERFEITED.

Extensive Circulation of Forged One-Thousand Dollar Notes—Description of the Spurious Paper—Measures Taken for the Discovery of the Criminals.

Great excitement in Wall-street yesterday was occasioned by the discovery that large numbers of $1,000 counterfeit seven-thirty compound interest bonds of the issue of June, 1865, were in circulation, and passing from hand to hand as readily as the genuine notes themselves. On the first intimation of it, of course every dealer in Government securities in the street began to compare his $1,000 bonds. The Sub-Treasury, which had been visited both by Mr. CLARK, of the Printing Bureau, Washington, and United States detectives, had subjected the so-called counterfeits to microscopical inspection; and with the exception that the red seal in the counterfeit note was larger than that of the genuine, there was little perceptible difference between them. The Assistant Treasurer was unable to give any definite idea of the amount in circulation, but thinks the principal brokers in the street have dealt more or less in them.

At the office of FISK & HATCH our reporter found a knot of persons more or less interested, discussing the matter, but no information of the extent of the transaction had been received, and but little beyond what was current street talk was known.

VERMILYE & Co. were equally in the dark in regard to it, and, with the exception of a call from a Government detective, to whom they gave such particulars as they had of parties from whom they had purchased bonds, nothing further was known.

At JAY COOKE & Co.'s banking-house a large number of gentlemen were closely scanning and comparing a genuine note with a counterfeit. Notwithstanding the statement at the Sub-Treasury of but a slight variation, from a personal inspection by our reporter, there certainly seemed to be a sufficient difference in the appearance of the bonds to excite suspicion in the mind of a person of even limited experience in such matters; but as they have been received by some of our shrewdest and most honorable business men, the dangerous character of this new counterfeit is manifest.

The difference between the original and the counterfeit one is seen in the lower left hand corner, which in the former has two dots (or colon) after the word "Treasury" in fine script letter, thus :, while in the latter but a single point (or period) is observable. In the line "Pay to the order of," the "of" in the genuine is very fine on the upper and lower outside line, and in the counterfeit coarse and heavy. In addition to these dissimilarities the lines of stars on either end of the note are distinct and prominent in the genuine, and indistinct and blurred in the other. Turning the bond over, the heavy border surrounding the words "Pay the bearer" is of much finer workmanship in the genuine than in the counterfeit.

The amount of these notes in circulation is variously estimated at from $40,000 to $168,000; but no source of information open to us could definitely fix the amount. What all seemed to agree upon was, that this new counterfeit came from the West, and had been put in the market about Sept. 24, sixteen days ago—a period amply sufficient to have enabled the counterfeiters to flood the market as well here as elsewhere with the largest amount above named. Indeed a higher figure may be nearer the mark.

To-day the subject will probably come up before the Board of Brokers, and some action will be taken which will fix the responsibility of the seller at once.

The Government detectives at this point, aided by a detective from Washington, were set at work, and are now busily engaged in "working up the case," but they have very slender material to guide them.

Trouble Among the Printers.

For some time past the relations existing between the compositors employed on the Brooklyn papers and the proprietors of the same have been very greatly disturbed by the action of an organization, which sought not only to control a scale of prices, but to dictate the conduct of the composing room. Yesterday morning the affair culminated in a general "strike" on the Eagle, Union and Times newspaper offices, by which those papers, all of which are published in the afternoon, were taken at great disadvantage.

The proprietor of the Eagle, Mr. VAN AUDEN, is absent from the city, and an agreement had been made on Wednesday by which it was understood the "strike" would be deferred until Friday. The editor of the paper charged the men with bad faith in the matter, to which they replied that the insertion of an "ad." calling for men, was a breakage of the truce and a full warrant of their conduct.

About 11 o'clock a meeting of the Typographical Union was held at Temperance Hall, at which the compositors from all the offices were present. After prolonged discussion a committee of three were appointed to visit the offices and obtain a final answer. During the proceedings one of the editors of the Eagle entered the room and sought a conference with the compositors of the Eagle office. He told them that as Mr. VAN AUDEN was absent he could say nothing for the office, but assured them that they should have the price demanded until the proprietor's return, when, no doubt, it would be satisfactorily arranged. Unfortunately the Union had already appointed its committee, and no one of the three papers could treat for itself alone.

The Committee called first on Mr. THOMAS KINSELLA, who met them and addressed to them quite a long and interesting speech, charging them with bad faith, and arguing that even if, in the end, they obtained the advance, they were injuring themselves in the estimation of their employers, and setting an example of combination which might some day react with unpleasant effect. He made the same proposition to them that was made at the Hall, which they rejected—whereupon he left them with the consolation that he would do the best he could without them, took off his coat, placed himself at the case and went to work.

The committee's visit to the Union and Times offices met with no better result. The consequence was that the men, discouraged and unhappy, loafed about all day with their hands, and little else in their pockets, while the papers came out a little after time with a scarcity of matter all set in "brevier"—but nevertheless they came out.

The upshot of the matter will probably be that the prices will be paid, but that the men formerly employed will be permitted to seek work elsewhere. There is some talk of engaging women compositors as is already done on two of our New-York papers.

POLICE COURTS.

THE TOMBS—HOGAN, JUSTICE.

BURGLARY.

AUGUST KLATTENHOFF, of No. 1 Lispenard-street, appeared before the magistrate yesterday and made oath that the stable owned by him, at No. 230 Church-street, was entered burglariously on the night of the 8th instant, when a horse valued at $800 was attempted to be taken away. He further accused GEORGE W. VANETTEN of the crime, because he had been informed by Officer PIERCE, of the Fifth Ward Police, that he had found the accused in the stable and arrested him. JENNIE RICHARDSON, of No. 231 Church-street, testified to having seen the prisoner draw the staple on the door and so enter. VANETTEN was held for trial. He is a Pennsylvanian and aged 26 years.

FORGED ORDERS.

JULIUS COHN, of No. 390 Pearl-street, made a complaint against MORRIS O'GORMAN, for forgery. It appears that a boy called on Mr. COHN and presented an order for three gallons of polishing varnish, purporting to have been signed by J. H. SPRINGMEYER, of No. 219 Bowery. As the order was evidently a forged one, Mr. COHN kept the paper and refused the goods. Yesterday O'GORMAN called and stated that he had sent the order and demanded the varnish. CHARLES H. MEYER testified that he was authorized to sign the firm name of SPRINGMEYER BROTHERS, and pronounced the order a forgery. O'GORMAN was remanded for trial.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

Officer THOMAS, of the Twenty-seventh Precinct, arrested GEORGE KIVERS yesterday because he was driving a diseased horse, to a cart heavily laden. As the animal was proved to be wholly unfit for service, the prisoner was committed for trial.

A QUEER PROCEEDING.

On Tuesday last JAMES E. ATWOOD was arrested by Officer HAGGERTY, of the Second Precinct, as a fugitive from justice, on the complaint of JAMES E. EMERSON, of Trenton, N. J., who accused him of having obtained $500 from the American Land Company, of that place, on pretence of disposing of a patent right to attach cutters in rotary discs. The prisoner was temporarily committed to await a requisition from the Governor of New-Jersey, which arrived yesterday. In the meantime a writ of certiorari had been obtained from Judge BRADY, of the Court of Common Pleas, by ATWOOD'S counsel, directed to the Warden of the City Prison. As Gov. FENTON'S warrant had not been obtained, the magistrate inquired if ATWOOD would go to New-Jersey voluntarily, and he agreed to do so, though counsel objected. The magistrate then ordered the officer to take the prisoner to New-Jersey, which he proceeded to do. While in the street, Mr. MARK FINLEY, the Tombs Prison Clerk, exhibited the writ and insisted that the prisoner must go before Judge BRADY. Considerable excitement and discussion ensued, when it was arranged that the matter be referred to Mr. BEDFORD, Assistant District-Attorney, who recommended that ATWOOD be carried before Judge BRADY. Here the accused was discharged, and the officer found himself without a prisoner, and only extricated himself from an unpleasant dilemma in rearresting ATWOOD on the complaint of JONAH WESTON, of No. 120½ Baxter-street, who accused him of having stolen the assignment of the patent alluded to. In this shape the case came up before Justice HOGAN, who accepted the new complaint and remanded the prisoner. In the meantime the original complainant will procure Gov. FENTON'S warrant, and the prisoner will, no doubt, find himself in New-Jersey after all, despite the efforts of counsel or the ignorance of the Police officer. The whole proceeding caused unusual excitement because of its perplexity.

JEFFERSON MARKET—LEDWITH, JUSTICE.

DESPERADOES CAUGHT.

JOHN HIGGINS, 27 years of age, residing at No. 312 East Nineteenth-street, who said he was a laborer, and THOMAS CARTER, 31 years of age, living at No. 372 Greenwich-street, claiming to be a plumber, were arraigned on a charge of grand larceny preferred by JAMES W. SNYDER, of No. 239 West Nineteenth-street. On Wednesday SNYDER left his express wagon standing in front of a store, and in it a chest of tea valued at $50. He went into a store for a moment, and coming out saw the prisoners driving off at a rapid pace in a wagon of their own, to which they had transferred the chest of tea. SNYDER jumped into his own wagon, and by dint of putting his horse to his utmost speed, with vociferous cries of "stop thief," after a short but exciting chase, succeeded in overtaking the fugitives and having them arrested by officers of the Twenty-ninth Precinct. The prisoners were identified by the Police and others as two of the most expert operators in their peculiar line of operations. The gray horse they have used to facilitate their depredations upon express wagons and goods left for show in front of stores, is noted for its uncouthness and wonderful speed, and now that the desperadoes are caught many of the exploits of the horse and his drivers are related. The prisoners were committed without bail to answer at the Court of General Sessions.

EXTENSIVE LARCENY.

JENNIE HALL, a native of Boston, 19 years of age, residing at No. 131 Bleecker-street, was arraigned charged with stealing $300 worth of clothing and furs from EMMA HOUSE, No. 103 Bleecker-street. The papers in the case detail none of the circumstances of the crime except that a portion of the stolen property has been found in the possession of the prisoner. This, however, was sufficient to insure her committal in default of $1,000 bail to answer at the Court of General Sessions.

ALLEGED FORGERY.

WILLIAM VALLEAU, Jr., doing business at No. 506 Broome-street, declared that a man to him unknown came into his store on the 30th day of September last, exhibiting the business card of C. HUYBERS, No. 173 Grand-street, and representing himself to be Mr. HUYBERS, expressed a desire to enter into business relations with Mr. VALLEAU. He had a package of twenty papers of gold leaf, the price of which was $197 50, made up for him, but did not take it away with him. Subsequently he sent another man with a check for the amount of the purchase on the National Butchers and Drovers' Bank, with a message that Mr. VALLEAU might deliver the gold leaf to the messenger, or send it at any time within a day or two to the purchaser's place of business. Suspecting nothing wrong, VALLEAU delivered the gold leaf and received the check, nor did he discover that there was any fraud until the check came back to him dishonored from the bank in which he had deposited it. An investigation was then had and it was found that the check was a forgery, and that the man who had first appeared to Mr. VALLEAU, had endeavored to sell the gold-leaf to Mr. SNEDECOR, No. 768 Broadway. This individual was searched out and arrested by Officer FOUNTAIN, and, giving the name of JAMES E. JOHNSON, denied his guilt, stating that he had never been in the store of VALLEAU in his life, declaring the charge against him the result of some strange mistake. He was committed in default of $1,500 bail to await a trial at the Court of General Sessions.

A CONFIDENCE OPERATOR.

WILLIAM CARSON, alias William Eastbrook, was brought to the bar to answer a complex charge of forgery and false pretences. He appears to have been acquainted in some of the restaurants of Wooster-street, and, Wednesday night, it is alleged, he visited the saloon of R. G. GARDNER, No. 129 Wooster-street, and presenting a check of SAWYER, WALLACE & Co. for $50, desired a loan of $3 upon it, stating he would redeem the check on the succeeding morning in order to get it cashed, and he obtained the loan. During the same evening he went into the place of GEORGE W. SHERMAN, No. 187 Wooster-street, where he had oysters and liquors to the amount of $5. He then borrowed of SHERMAN $15, and tendered him in settlement of the bill a sight draft signed by JAMES DUNCAN & Co. for $120, which was unsuspectingly accepted. These documents were not redeemed and were presented to the firms whose names they bore yesterday, and were at once pronounced to be forgeries. Information of the affair was then given to Capt. MILLS of the Eighth Precinct, and after some search Officer LOUGHLIN succeeded in arresting the accused late in the afternoon, at No. 190 Greene-street. The prisoner was committed for trial at the Court of General Sessions on a charge of forgery.

ESSEX MARKET—MANSFIELD, JUSTICE.

A SINGULAR CASE.

Wednesday, a woman of middle-age, giving the name of CATHARINE PETERSON, appeared in Court and preferred a charge of abandonment against a man employed at No. 154 Church-street, named CHRISTOPHER PETERSON, whom she claimed as her husband. Her statement was that her maiden name was CATHARINE MAHER, and that she had married PETERSON on the 1st day of November, 1857, at a small country town near Montreal, Canada, and that two years and a half subsequently he had deserted her and she had found no trace of him afterward until she met him in the store in this City where he is employed. Her sister, BRIDGET, corroborated her story and a warrant was issued for the arrest of PETERSON.

Yesterday the case came up for examination. Mrs. PETERSON swore positively to the identity of the prisoner, and swore as positively to certain marks and scars upon the face as having been there at the date of the desertion, and the sister of the complainant corroborated her evidence in its main features. It so happened, however, that the PETERSON, who is a Norwegian by birth, has long been a member of the Scandinavian Society, of this City, and was able from this circumstance to prove his entire career ever since his arrival in this country in 1854. By various witnesses he traced his life from that date until the present time, shewing that he was not in Canada, but in this City at the date of the asserted marriage; that he married here, and that his wife and five children had all died here prior to the year 1863. At that time he entered the army and there acquired the scars that the complainant had sworn were upon the face of her husband in the year 1860. There seemed no end to the testimony by which he was able to prove that the woman calling herself CATHARINE PETERSON was entirely mistaken, and the Justice was constrained to dismiss the complaint.

A GAMBLING HOUSE SUPPRESSED.

Roundsman GASTIER, of the Seventh Precinct, yesterday morning, between three and four o'clock, made a descent upon the gambling den kept by CHAS. MEYER, in the basement of the building No. 18 East Broadway. A game of faro was in full operation, and the officer seized all the implements and secured the proprietor and fourteen persons, who at the moment were engaged in playing. MEYER was required to find bail in the sum of $500 to answer at the Court of General Sessions, and the others were committed for examination.

A DOG CASE.

WM. WINGERS charged THOS. MADDEN with stealing a bull-terrier dog, whose value is stated to be $25. The dog disappeared on the 28th of September from No. 175 First-avenue, and on the 9th inst. was found in the possession of MADDEN. The accused gave bail in the sum of $300 to answer.

ALBANY, Thursday, Oct. 10.

The trade in cattle was extremely dull to-day; the decline in prices in New-York and Brighton led buyers to look for some falling off here, but instead they found sellers, who paid more for the stock in Buffalo, asking higher rates than they did last week. The result was the withdrawal of a number of buyers, and the sales were unusually light. Really good cattle, which continue scarce, brought an advance of about ¼c. ⅌ ℔., while the poorer grades sold about as well as last week; receipts, 4,300 head, nearly all going to New-York, will go in first hands.
